SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today a 24-hour cease-fire in observance of the 2,513th birthday of Buddha May 30.

The announcement came as police sources reported the Viet Cong appear to have launched a new terror campaign in Saigon aimed at undermining the government.

A spokesman for President Nguyen Van Thieu said the cease-fire would run from 6 a.m. Saigon time, May 30, until 6 a.m. May 31.

Saigon time is 12 hours ahead of Eastern Daylight time.

The announcement was made over nationwide television.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission said: "We were consulted and we are in agreement."

Five terror attacks were reported between 6 p.m. Wednesday and noon today. Five Vietnamese were killed and 43 Vietnamese and six Americans were wounded in the capital's worst rash of terrorism this year.

In the most sensational attack, two plastic bombs exploded simultaneously in the crowded main room of Saigon's central post office just after 8 a.m. The blasts killed a South Vietnamese army captain and three Vietnamese civilians and wounded 21 Vietnamese civilians.

The bombs, wrapped as packages to be mailed, went off in opposite ends of the cavernous room. The bigger bomb contained about 15 pounds of explosive, the smaller one about two pounds.

Police said the explosive packages were brought into the yellow stucco building by a group of youths who apparently dashed out and escaped on motor scooters.

The other attacks involved the throwing of grenades at U.S. and South Vietnamese military trucks and civilian cars and the plastic bombing of a South Vietnamese navy truck 400 yards from the post office.

Police sources said they had seized Communist documents three days ago in Saigon calling for a terrorist campaign between May 7, the 15th anniversary of the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu, and May 19, the 79th birthday of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

Meanwhile, Viet Cong gunners shelled Hue, the old imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon, for the first time in two months. Military spokesmen said two Vietnamese children and an adult were killed. One Vietnamese civilian and one American civilian were wounded.

Six 100-pound Russian rockets landed on the city shortly after midnight Wednesday, and two hospitals were hit.

"Damage to the second floor at the provincial hospital was reported heavy," a spokesman said. "A tuberculosis hospital sustained light damage."

The U.S. Command announced that a force of 4,000 American, South Vietnamese and South Korean troops are making an intensive sweep of 40-square-mile Barrier Island, on the coast 20 miles southeast of Da Nang, seeking to root out the Viet Cong who have controlled the island for years.

Amphibious craft and helicopters landed the infantrymen on the island May 5. Military spokesmen said 55 Viet Cong have been killed and 57 captured. Another 1,500 civilians have been taken to a detention center for screening.

The weekly allied casualty summaries, issued today, listed 205 Americans killed in action last week, 168 government troops and 3,414 of the enemy. The American and enemy totals were near the average for the past month of relatively light ground action.

A Transplant Patient Said 'Doing Fine'

Mrs. Nona M. Hickenbottom, 231 South Quincy, who underwent a kidney transplant operation at St. Luke's Hospital in Kansas City April 29, is "doing just fine" according to her sister, Mrs. Carol Goetz of Sedalia.

Mrs. Goetz said she called Kansas City today. "Everything is just fine and she looks quite a bit stronger now," Mrs. Goetz said.

The wife of Air Force T-Sgt. Harold Hickenbottom, Mrs. Hickenbottom received the donor kidney from a Kansas City youth who died of injuries sustained in an accident.

Mrs. Goetz said that physicians estimated Mrs. Hickenbottom would be hospitalized about two months.

At 'End of the Beginning,' Nixon Tells GOP Bigwigs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, presiding over $2.7 million worth of Republican rejoicing, has declared his administration is at "the end of the beginning" in dealing with war, crime and inflation.

"I think the American people will begin to see the results of that progress," he told a $1,000-a-plate GOP fund raising dinner Wednesday night.

Nixon said "naturally and understandably" some people have been critical of the pace of his administration during its first 100 days.

The President said he deliberately sought "not to make the kind of record that looks very good in the headlines tomorrow" but is found wanting in the history books.

"We want a record of solid achievement," he said.

He said it would have been easy to promise withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam or an end to inflation but that kind of pledge could not immediately have been fulfilled.

"We're never going to promise something we can't produce," he said.

Paraphrasing Winston Churchill, Nixon said that even after three months in office he cannot say the new administration is at the beginning of the end in dealing with national problems.

"But I can say that we have reached the point that it's the end of the beginning," he said.

He said he spent the first 100 days developing plans and programs to reach that point. And he told the Republicans who paid $1,000 to dine on filet mignon that a year from now "this administration will have made the progress that you wanted."

The City Council, at a public hearing at City Hall Wednesday night, decided to give Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hopper, Lenoir, Tenn., 10 days to repair or remove a house at 707 North New York.

The action was part of a general session in which six residential structures were ordered repaired or removed, according to Woodrow Garrison, building inspector.

The properties are: 1213 East Fourth, owned by Kenneth K. Simon, Kansas City; 707 North New York; 105 East Morgan, owned by John M. Kirkpatrick, Jefferson City; 422 North Lamine, owned by Mrs. Devolia Tibbs, St. Louis; 405 North Mill, owned by Mrs. Cecile Robinson, 419 East Pettis; 616 West Henry, owned by Mrs. Mary May and Mrs. Nellie Golden, both of Kansas City.

In most of the cases the owners gave their written consent to have the buildings torn down as part of the enforcement of the city's dangerous buildings ordinance, Garrison said.

In the case of the Hopper family, repair or removal of their property was requested by adjacent property owners, through petition to the council.

Of the properties involved, only one, at 405 North Mill, is being removed now, Garrison said.

The building inspector said property owners usually get 30 days notice of a condemnation procedure. Then, if no action is taken, notice of a public hearing is sent out. If owners refuse to comply with city statutes, they could be liable to fine, Garrison said.

He added that on the average, about 25 residential structures are condemned each year. So far this year there have been 10, he said.

Viet Cong Present New 10-Point Plan

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong today presented a 10-point peace plan, based mainly on previously rejected proposals but containing some new elements.

The United States reacted cautiously, but South Vietnam said the other side was persisting in demanding "the unilateral withdrawal of allied forces and the overthrow of the legal and constitutional government of South Vietnam."

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told reporters that the new proposals, since they dealt with political matters, should be dealt with by the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front and the Saigon government.

Asked whether he saw any movement toward progress toward peace, he replied: "It's very hard to characterize these meetings."

The new plan was submitted to the Vietnam peace talks at their 16th session by Than Buu Kiem, front representative, and quickly backed by North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy.

After the session both said the United States and South Vietnam had reacted unfavorably during the rebuttal period. The meeting lasted 5 hours and 10 minutes. The next session will be on Friday next week because Thursday is a French holiday, Ascension Day.

The central point of the NLF plan was establishment of a provisional coalition government to arrange a general election and to rule South Vietnam between the time peace is attained and a constituent assembly is elected.

This had been rejected repeatedly by the Saigon government and the United States. The United States also had rejected previous demands for unilateral withdrawal of U.S. troops. It did not appear likely that the new elements would make the plan any more attractive than previous ones.

It might help, however, in tipping the propaganda scales back again toward the Viet Cong and North Vietnam, which had been hurt considerably by the conciliatory moves in Washington and Saigon.

The plan did not specifically mention North Vietnamese military forces, but it was clear that their withdrawal would be in a different category from those of the United States and would be left up to the Vietnamese people themselves. The United States and South Vietnam have called for mutual withdrawal of North Vietnamese and allied forces.

The new plan was presented to the 16th session of the peace talks by Tran Buu Kiem, representative of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. It apparently was the result of recent high-level policy consultations in Hanoi.

Kiem called the proposals a plan to allow the Vietnamese people "to settle their own affairs without foreign interference."

It was quickly supported by North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy.

The proposals did not refer specifically to the presence of North Vietnamese forces, but the reference to leaving the question of Vietnam armed forces to the Vietnamese themselves appeared to be intended to cover the North Vietnamese troops.

Kiem made his proposal after the United States told the North Vietnamese and the front that "we must be ready for the unpleasant contingency that your side does not want to negotiate a peaceful settlement."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors of both states chosen by the Nixon administration as initial sites for antiballistic missiles have declared themselves opposed to the controversial Safeguard program.

The two Democrats, first-term Gov. Forrest H. Anderson of Montana and fourth-term Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota, contend the short-term economic benefits of Safeguard sites in their states wouldn't be worth the long-term problems they could cause.

And they say they don't want their states to become nuclear junkyards.

As the controversy rages in Washington, a possible referendum on the antiballistic missile — ABM — issue is building up through a special congressional election in the normally Republican 2nd District of eastern Montana where one proposed site is located.

That site is Malmstrom Air Force Base in Great Falls, Mont. The other proposed site is Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force Base. Both have Minuteman missiles which ABM supporters say would be protected by the Safeguard system.

Democratic nominee John Melcher, a veterinarian from Forsyth, has opposed the ABM in his contest against Republican William S. Mather, a Billings lawyer and state legislator. They seek the seat surrendered by Republican James F. Battin, now a federal judge.

Anderson, who beat GOP incumbent governor Tim Babcock last year in one of the few Democratic bright spots nationally, gave his position in a statement inserted by Rep. Arnold Olsen, D-Mont., in Wednesday's Congressional Record.

"I do not wish to see Montana become the nuclear ammunition dump—and later junkyard—of the United States," Anderson said. "I have yet to find any scientific authority outside the industrial-military complex who can offer assurance the system will operate at all."

Anderson also said "the economic gains from short-term military construction programs frequently bring long-term financial headaches."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Majority Democrats in the Missouri House today rejected as a "grandstand play" Republican efforts to boost the amount of money for state aid to public schools.

Republicans insisted the House has gone on record in favor of tax increases and now should tell the Senate the money was promised primarily for increased school aid.

Up for advancement was a routine bill transferring $184 million from the general revenue (tax) fund to the State School Monies fund.

Rep. R. J. (Bus) King, R-Clayton, minority leader, offered an amendment to boost the figure by $70 million.

"This House has spoken its views on revenue measures," he said. "It's time now for this House to speak its views on the commitment of those funds."

The appropriations chairman, Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, called the move a grandstand play and said additional money could be added to the school fund later when the Legislature is assured of increased revenue.

He accused King of "trying to tell the people you're giving them a bottle but you're keeping the cork on it."

King replied that Cantrell's argument was facetious. A few Democrats joined the Republicans but the amendment lost 61-93.

Republicans then urged a $35 million increase and it lost also.

The House passed and sent to the Senate without discussion the once embattled $128 million bill to finance higher education. Also passed was a $3.4 million bill to finance the Legislature during the coming fiscal year.

Wednesday, the House advanced a bill to let penitentiary inmates go on furlough for up to 30 days if they are considered good risks and their purpose is approved.

It is similar to laws in effect in 12 states and also applied by the federal penal system.

With approval of the director of corrections, an inmate could be allowed temporary freedom to visit an ill relative or a wife about to have a baby, to obtain special medical help, to see a prospective employer, re-establish family ties before final release or for other approved reasons.

The inmate could even go outside the state if he first signed an agreement he would waive extradition should he violate the terms of his furlough.

Abandoned was a bill to let persons between 18 and 21 years of age sell liquor or beer in a grocery or drugstore or carry mixed drinks in a restaurant.

Will Question a GI About KC Slayings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A soldier recently returned from Korea will be returned to Kansas City today for questioning in the killing of two young women, The Kansas City Star said in a copyrighted article.

The newspaper said Pfc. Michael H. Sweetser, 20-year-old former Kansas City assistant movie theater manager, had agreed to waive extradition.

Wife Gives Tips To Mate's 'Girl'

Dear Ann Landers: I am addressing this letter to that 24-year-old lunatic who thinks she is in love with my husband.

Dear Miss Starry Eyes: He thinks he is in love with you, too, dear. And from his description of you, you deserve each other. Just to prove I'm not bitter, I'm going to give you a few tips. Ellsworth will make a wonderful husband for some strong, healthy woman who knows how to mow a lawn, cut the hedges, shovel the snow and remove storm windows. Also, it would be ever so nice if you enjoy taking little boys fishing, because he doesn't. And I do hope you have financial resources of your own because Ellsworth believes women are too dumb to handle money. You'll have to beg for every penny and produce receipts—and the figures better come out even.

If you really want him for your very own I'll happily send him over. But please don't say I didn't warn you, Honey. I wish his first wife had warned me. — Montreal, Quebec.

Dear Montreal: Forewarned is forearmed. But I wonder if an ex-wife can ever successfully wise up her successor. I doubt it.

Dear Ann Landers: May a young gynecologist say a word to the woman who signed herself "Nebraska" and described her brother-in-law as a sexpot who went into O.B. and Gyn. because he liked to "fool around with women"?

"Fooling around with women" is not limited to the medical profession or to any particular specialty. Women abound. In fact, more than 50 per cent of the world's population are women. One need not place himself on 24-hour call, seven days a week, to find a female to "fool around" with. Get the word to Nebraska, will you please? — L.K., An O.B.

Dear L.K.: You did, and I hope it scorches her corn husks.

Dear Ann Landers: Bless you for telling that young girl not to marry the fellow who threatened to kill himself if she dropped him. Your advice that she urge him to get professional help and end the relationship promptly was just right. A close friend tried to get me to see the situation for what it was but I refused to listen and my life has been a living hell ever since.

The girl's letter sounded like one I could have written 18 years ago. Especially her line—"Every time I break off with him he cried and looked so pathetic." Now I realize there must have been something pretty sick about me, too, or I would not have allowed him to blackmail me with his tears and threats.

To marry a man because you feel sorry for him is the ultimate insult. It is also the sure road to self-destruction. I know because I took it. — No Way Out

Dear No Way: Thank you for writing. I hope your letter will be read and your advice heeded by those for whom it is not too late.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (C) 1969. Publishers-Hall Syndicate

Colorado Senate Reacts To Seizure of Rostrum

DENVER (AP)—The Colorado State Senate, stung by demonstrators' brief seizure of its rostrum, reacted quickly with antiriot, antidisorder legislation.

Using roundabout parliamentary maneuvering Wednesday, the Senate—just a few hours after the incident—approved measures providing fines of up to $500 and jail sentences of up to a year for conviction of trying to take over a public building.

The 14 young demonstrators—including three clergymen and a nun—elbowed their way through a side door of the Senate chamber, took over the rostrum and held it until carried out, limp, by police.

They were protesting the legislature's failure to act on 22 pieces of legislation dealing with farm labor, welfare, law enforcement, consumer protection and school aid for the underprivileged.

Some members of the group, all Mexican-American or Anglo-American, had participated in earlier marches and fasting in support of the same social legislation.

Gov. Mark Hogan recessed the Senate when the protesters headed for the platform. Most of the 33 members left the floor.

The demonstrators were booked on disturbances charges on complaints signed by Hogan and Sen. William L. Armstrong, the majority leader.

Gov. John Love, who was not present, said such disruptions would not be tolerated. "We will take such precautions or will use such force as necessary to insure the legislative bodies... are allowed to operate in an orderly and peaceful manner," he told newsmen later.

The Senate took a circuitous route to pass its antidisorder bill. It took two bills dealing with trespass and disturbance—neither of which had passed the House—and tacked their provisions onto a House bill dealing with postdated checks. The check bill had passed both houses and was in the Senate for final amendment or passage.

Kansan Given A Sentence For Abortion

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—Austin L. Jamieson, 44, of Leawood, Kan., pleaded guilty to a charge of abortion Wednesday in Johnson County Magistrate Court and was sentenced to six months in the county jail.

Jerry Dickson, magistrate pro tem, placed the former osteopathic physician on parole for one year.

Jamieson also pleaded guilty to a charge of practicing medicine without a license and received a six month jail term. The parole applies to both sentences.

The charges are in connection with an alleged abortion last August.

Jamieson is also scheduled for trial in magistrate court on two counts of procuring abortions last October.

Walter S. Odor, 69, of Mission Hills, Kan., is also charged in connection with the cases.

A preliminary hearing for Jamieson is scheduled in Wyandotte County May 15 on charges stemming from a raid April 21 in Kansas City, Kan.

After the raid Jamieson was charged with procuring an abortion, dispensing stimulating drugs and practicing medicine without a license.

Confident of Nixon In Hunger Pledge

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican senator who played an important role in reversing the Nixon administration on the politically loaded hunger issue says he is confident President Nixon will supply more money if needed.

The prediction was made by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, ranking GOP member of the special Senate hunger committee, after Chairman George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Nixon's recommendations are "a step in the right direction, but it's a very limited step."

When it came his turn Wednesday to question secretaries Clifford M. Hardin of the Agriculture Department and Robert H. Finch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Javits said the committee and the administration agree on objectives of a hunger program.

"We've got to be sure the bridge isn't built a yard too short," Javits said.

Later, a reporter asked Javits if he thinks the President's bridge is too short.

"I think we have to see," he replied, adding: "I think the disposition of the President will be to supply the yard if we need it."

Javits' statement is significant because twice in recent weeks the New York Republican has moved in to help the Nixon administration off politically dangerous hooks on the hunger issue.

When the McGovern committee was getting considerable news coverage from a field trip through the slums of Washington, Javits arranged for Hardin to announce a program to supply nutritional food packets for needy infants and mothers.

Last week, after McGovern sent invitations to Hardin, Finch and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo, Javits stood in the Senate and expressed the hope that widespread reports the administration had decided against a major hunger program were untrue.

"I would hope very much that it has not yet been taken and that the subject will be most carefully reviewed in terms of what should be our national priorities," he said.

Faced with the prospect of fire from the committee's Republicans and Democrats, the administration took Javits' advice.

College Receives Two Scholarships

Fred Davis, president of State Fair Community College, has announced that Third National Bank has established two scholarships for students entering the college next fall. The scholarships are for Pettis or Benton County students.

"Our college is very appreciative of the support of Third National Bank in our scholarship program. Scholarships play an important part in motivating capable students toward further education and they will benefit the community as well as the student," Davis stated.

The 'Sport' of Fishing Consists of Escapism

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the season when millions of Americans literally go out of their minds.

By this I mean they go fishing.

Fishing is regarded as America's most popular outdoor participant sport. But to the bored nonparticipant it isn't a sport at all. It is an exhibition of mass aberration among overgrown juveniles.

To knock fishing smacks of un-Americanism. But it is also difficult for a reasonable person to see why this pastime should assume the proportions of an idolatry to millions, or why it should have become a favorite sport of at least nine U.S. presidents ranging in intellectual depth from George Washington to Calvin Coolidge.

Certainly there are many more things to criticize about fishing than there are to praise about it, unless one fishes to avoid starving, which is rare.

A sport usually involves competition between opponents who are nearly equal. Measured by this definition, fishing is

Ladies Aid Has Meeting

St. Paul Lutheran Ladies Aid met May 1 for their regular business and social meeting. Mrs. Arthur Wagenknecht presided.

The Rev. Melvin Geffert gave the scripture reading and presented the topic, "A Family Affair."

Members of the Aid went to Whiteman Air Force Base May 7 and will go again on May 21 to do Red Cross sewing.

The business meeting adjourned with the Lord's Prayer.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. E. C. Schlichting and Mrs. Walter Raabe.

More Successful Men Live Longer

MONTREAL (AP)—Your chances of living to 65 are directly related to education and success in career and marriage, insurance statistician Jules V. Quint said Tuesday.

Quint, from the Metropolitan Insurance Co., told an underwriters association that death rates among men 25 to 64 decline in relation to educational attainment and married men have considerably lower mortality rates than bachelors or divorced men.

"Prominent professional and business men live on the average distinctly longer than men in the general population," he said.

"Scientists register the lowest mortality rate among prominent men, while the highest mortality is registered by correspondents and journalists."

about as sporting as the shooting of sparrows with shotguns.

Can a fish be classed as a fit opponent for a man? Not unless the fisherman is surprisingly dull-witted.

He brings to the unfair contest a human mind, a mind that is the wonder of the animal realm, sharpened by centuries of struggle, and anywhere from $50 to $1,000 or more worth of scientific gadgetry—poles, boats and lures. All this is designed to take advantage of the poor fish's sense of hunger.

And what does the fish bring to this contest, which he has no heart for at all? He brings to it a mind that hasn't progressed in eons, one of the lowest mentalities that ever existed.

Fishermen love to brag about how they outwitted a smart fish, but there simply are not smart fish. How can any creature be classed as smart that is content to subsist on worms and spend its life drowning in water?

An excuse advanced in favor of most sports is that they help build character. On this ground fishing falls down completely. Far from helping to build character, fishing steadily and incessantly tears down the character of its practitioners.

Fishermen are traditionally and notoriously universal liars, a rule that allows of no exception. The more they fish the more they lie; the more fish escape them, the bigger their lies become. If a man starts fishing at 10, by the time he is 70 the truth is no longer in him at all.

Why do men go fishing at all? One is led to the inevitable conclusion that most men who go fishing don't really fish. They simply use fishing as an excuse to play poker, get loaded, or escape from their wives.

On this ground—and this ground alone—fishing can be justified. Fishing isn't a sport. It's just a way for a fellow to run away from home for a while.

But why aren't fishermen manly enough to admit it?

Test Soft Landings With Cargo of Eggs

HILLSBORO, Ore. (AP)—Twenty-seven eggs were dropped from a plane flying at 1,000 feet. Nine did not break.

The sky drop was an experiment by sixth graders at Portland's Boise Elementary School.

The youngsters designed packages no bigger than a shoe box, which would deliver an egg safely to the ground.

For the flight, Shirley Harris, 12, wrapped her two eggs in a towel and stuffed the box with newspapers. The eggs survived.

Softest landing was made by Sherry Bell's eggs, wrapped in styrofoam in a shoe box, with a paper bag acting as a parachute.

Small World For Truman at 85

WASHINGTON (AP) — His clothes hang loose now on a pitifully thin frame; his knuckles go white as his hands clutch a cane; his visits with cherished old friends are few—he tires easily.

This is Harry S. Truman, 85 years old today.

Once he presided over the world's mightiest nation. Now his world is usually bounded by the short walks an arthritic old man can take from the century-old white frame home in Independence, Mo., where he has lived since he left Washington 16 years ago.

Once his every action made waves. Now, on the back stoop of history, he is watched mostly by Bess, the grade school sweetheart he married 50 years ago next month.

Once his words were flashed around the world. Now he gives no interviews, makes no speeches. What there is to be learned about him has to come from intimate friends.

In the quiet of that big house at Truman Road and Delaware, separated from the world by his feebleness and a big iron fence, he is busy with the avocation of a lifetime, the pursuit of knowledge. He reads or is read to from four books at a time, skipping restlessly like a hungry diner from one tidbit to the next.

Five years ago, Truman's 80th birthday was celebrated with a round of parties in Kansas City, Washington and New York. He returned home exhausted and Mrs. Truman put her foot down. He began to appear less and less at public functions.

In 1967 he asked Henry Talge, an industrialist who had thrown huge birthday luncheons for him since 1953 to cut them out "because I need to conserve my energy."

Talge said "you can't do too much for this man" and continued to stage the luncheons with guests raising their glasses in salute to an empty chair. Ministers of six faiths were on the program for today's luncheon.

Age has altered many of the Truman hallmarks. Famed as an early-morning riser, Truman sleeps now until after 7 a.m.—late for him. Part of this, friends say, is because of the medications he takes for the arthritis in his right hip, for the intestinal ailments that sometimes plague him, for the dizziness he often suffers.

He used to say his brisk morning walks kept him fit and he hoped it would prevent arthritis from crippling him as it did his sister. But a few years ago, because of the dizzy spells, he had to abandon the walks.

He was never a big eater, and the lack of exercise shrunk his appetite further. His weight, friends say, is about 125 pounds—50 pounds under his presidential weight.

During the winter he began walking again—first around the block, then several blocks—with his long-time bodyguard Mike Westwood. A close friend said he has not seen Truman look better in years than he does right now—after three weeks in the Florida sun. The walks are almost routine again, but not as far, as brisk or as early.

Three mornings a week he dictates letters to Rose Conway, his secretary from White House days. Except for the recent visit by President Nixon—when Truman was given his old White House piano—the former president has not gone to the Truman Library in 2½ years. The library, with a wing added recently, had been Truman's biggest source of pride as well as his office and receiving place for important visitors, since it was built in 1957.

Nowadays, after getting an okay from Mrs. Truman, VIP's come to the Truman home. They rarely stay more than a half hour. Mrs. Truman sees to that.

Mrs. Truman, only nine months younger than the former president, has a noon-to-seven maid during the week but cooks Truman's breakfast and lunch and does all the marketing.

They celebrate their 50th anniversary on June 28.

Even at 85, Truman continues to be concerned with the peace of the world. He gets briefings from the White House liaison office set up originally by President Lyndon B. Johnson and continued by Nixon.

And history, Truman's first love, continues to absorb his interest.

Truman's fourth book—a study of presidents from George Washington through Franklin Delano Roosevelt—is nearing completion. In it, friends say, he makes a personal assessment of each man. Truman's first book was a personal account of his own presidency, the second and third were memoirs.

The former president once said he "can't see any difference between the 80s and the 60s—a man is as young as he feels and a woman is as young as she looks."

He was asked how long he wanted to live.

"As long," he said, "as my think-tank works and my legs stand up. When they're finished, then I'll depart."

Let's Go Home

The tables were turned on Zan when he had to be rescued from flood waters of Deer Creek, south of Denver, Colo., where three days of rain has caused heavy flooding. The rescue mission for the St. Bernard is carried out by William Venson of Denver. (UPI)

Color TV Camera Goes to the Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10 will carry a color television camera on its flight to the moon and back, space agency officials said Wednesday.

The Apollo 10 astronauts will use the camera to send back 12 television transmissions, one of them lasting up to 40 minutes, officials at the Manned Spacecraft Center said.

The camera will be aboard the command module, the mother ship which stays in a 60-mile orbit of the moon while the small lunar module drops to within nine miles of the moon's surface.

One Square Foot Of Land Necessary

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Because she is running for a seat on the Pontiac Board of Education, Mrs. Eldred Sweeney has bought her first piece of property—one square foot. It cost $1.

"I'm kinda proud of that property. I'm going to make a white picket fence out of ice cream sticks and then plant some flowers, probably three red tulips," said the 30-year-old mother of three.

Mrs. Sweeney says the purchase qualifies her as a Pontiac property owner.

Arab Guerrilla Leader Will Oppose UN Peace

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The leader of one of the most active of the Palestinian guerrilla organizations has vowed to sabotage any peaceful solution of the Middle East conflict which might emerge from Big Four talks.

Dr. George Habash, leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, rejects any settlement that provides for the continued existence of the state of Israel.

"We should go out of our way to prevent the conclusion of peace along the lines of the U.N. resolution," Habash said in an interview.

"To us, a peaceful solution means injustice. It means we remain in the squalor of our refugee camps, without a country, without dignity, without hope. We cannot continue to live as sheep."

The U.N. resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, calls for Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory, an end to Arab belligerence and free navigation for Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal and the Tiran Strait.

Habash's organization has spurned the drudgery of routine day-to-day commando raids into Israel and concentrated on sensational attacks that make headlines. Its commandos hijacked an Israeli airliner over the Mediterranean last summer, shot up two other El Al jets in Athens and Zurich and planted a bomb in a Jerusalem supermarket which killed two Israeli and injured 26.

Habash, a Marxist who graduated from the American University in Beirut, said the Popular Front regards Communist China as its principal ally. He came close to saying front guerrillas were trained by the Peking regime.

"We have to cooperate with any country that sees the problem as we see it," he said.

"We describe our organization as Marxist because Marxism is our scientific guide. We seek to escalate the struggle into a long war of liberation such as was waged in China. It is the only way a backward people can face a highly technical society such as Israel."

Marxism, said Habash, enabled the front to define its enemy and its allies.

"Our enemy is not Israel," he added. "Israel is backed by imperialist forces. It could not survive without the millions that imperialism is pouring in."

It's About Time!

A retired dishwasher and "a proud soldier" says he's going to pay off some old bills and take a rest when he receives an expected $100,000 windfall from Uncle Sam. Joseph R. Flynn, 66, Dallas, Tex., has apparently won a 24-year war with the Army over retirement pay it now says is due him for 20 years of military service. Flynn was discharged as a first lieutenant in 1945 after his commanding officer testified he was a chronic alcoholic. Flynn claimed at no time was the charge proven, but it prevented him from re-enlisting later to complete his service and obtain his pension. Now the Army has heard his case and approved his long delayed pension. (UPI)

Mrs. Clara R. Kanoy

Mrs. Clara R. Kanoy, 76, 1202 South Park, died at 7 a.m. Thursday at Bothwell Hospital after a long illness.

She was born May 12, 1892, at Concordia, daughter of the late Henry and Sophia Huels Steinman. She was married to Roby T. Kanoy April 25, 1917, at Concordia. They lived in Concordia until 1940, when they came to Sedalia.

Mrs. Kanoy spent her early life in Concordia where she received her education. She was a member of the Broadway Presbyterian Church.

Surviving her are her husband; three sisters, Miss Edna Steinman, 1202 South Park; Mrs. Frances Flandermeyer, Concordia; Mrs. Lawrence Ehlers, Kansas City, and several nieces and nephews.

Preceding her in death were two sisters, Mrs. Ida Helt and Mrs. Verna Struchemeyer, and a brother, Elmer Steinman. The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Allen H. Urton

HOUSTONIA — Allen H. Urton, 91, died at Sweet Springs Community Hospital.

He was born July 14, 1877, at Houstonia. He married Maude Pile in 1948 at Sweet Springs, who preceded him in death in 1965.

Mr. Urton was a retired farmer and a lifelong resident of this community. He was a member of the Baptist church.

Surviving him are five stepsons, Glynn Pile, Houstonia; John Pile, Stockton, Calif.; Russell Pile, Andrews AFB, Washington, D. C.; George Pile, Detroit, Mich. and Lynn Pile, Jr., stationed with the U.S. Army in Iran.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Moore Funeral Home, with the Rev. James E. Cary officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery, Sweet Springs.

The family will receive friends Thursday evening at the funeral home.

Katherine L. Riggs

Katherine L. Riggs, 68, Kansas City, a former Sedalian, died at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary's Hospital, Kansas City.

She was born Nov. 3, 1900, at Todd County, Kan., daughter of Clarence and Maude Tandy. She was married to Homer M. Riggs June 29, 1935.

Mrs. Riggs moved to Sedalia when a young girl. She was a cashier for the St. Louis clothing store, for a number of years. She had been a resident of Kansas City since her marriage. She was a member of the Epworth Methodist Church, Kansas City.

Surviving her are her husband; a son, Homer T. Riggs, Kansas City; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Tivis, Kansas City and Mrs. Virginia Tantis, Sedalia, and one nephew.

Preceding her in death were her parents, two brothers, Clarence Tandy and one who died in infancy.

The body is at the Muehlebach Funeral Home, Kansas City. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

In 1827 Army officers were lent to the founders of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to initiate its construction. This was to become the first link in the nation's great rail communications chain.

Impeachment Move Is Termed Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, has forecast an impeachment move in the House against Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas unless Fortas explains a $200,000 fee offered him by the Louis E. Wolfson family foundation.

"It all depends on what happens in the next few days," Taft said, adding that he doesn't now plan to file such proceedings himself but might later depending on developments.

Taft said he and other House members think Fortas should be given an opportunity to make further explanation of the fee.

Saves Dog Rider, But Not Two Cars

A canine passenger on a tractor almost fell off the vehicle Wednesday, but the driver saved the dog just in time. Unfortunately, doing it resulted in damage to two parked cars, according to Sedalia police.

The tractor was headed east on Main, driven by J. C. Porter, 407 North Heard, when the dog almost fell off it. The parked cars were a 1965 Chrysler owned by Louis Heisterberg, 717 East 14th, and a 1964 Pontiac owned by James Leroy Ulmer, 804 East 13th.

The accident occurred at 1:26 p.m. in the 300 block on East Main. Both cars were damaged.

Pilot Vows To Salvage A Hijacker

MIAMI (AP) — Pilot Harry Davis says he'll go wherever necessary to "help make a good citizen" out of a youth who held a knife to his back and ordered his jetliner to Cuba seven months ago.

"I think he'll be alright now and I think he can be channeled toward becoming a good citizen," said the 47-year-old National Airlines captain.

The youth, Michael A. Peparo, 21, of Cold Spring, N.Y., and his 18-year-old girl friend, Tasmine Fitzgerald of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., were found guilty of interfering with the crew of an airliner in flight and were sentenced Wednesday to indeterminate confinement in federal prison. Court officials said they could serve from three months to six years in prison.

Charges of air piracy against the two were dropped. "I will go to this boy wherever he is confined and continue to try to help him," Davis told U.S. Dist. Court Judge C. Clyde Atkins.

Davis, father of four children, told a newsman he decided he'd help the then long-haired Peparo minutes after the youth barged into his cockpit Sept. 4 with a paring knife in one hand and an insect spray can in the other.

"Initially I had certain reservations and didn't know whether he'd use the knife. But soon we began discussing the war in Vietnam and his position was that he didn't believe in the draft and didn't want to go over there and kill. He was a very religious boy," said the veteran of 19 years with National.

Davis said he and the crew talked Peparo out of going through with the hijacking, telling him many of the hijackers "are serving 25 years in hard labor in Cuba."

Plan

reasons are now living outside Vietnam.

The election would be to choose a constituent assembly. There would then be a coalition government based on the outcome of the election.

Kiem called for the total withdrawal of U.S. forces, arms and war materiel without posing any conditions whatsoever. He also demanded the withdrawal of all non-Vietnamese allied forces and the liquidation of all allied bases.

The proposal seemed in many respects to resemble the "political program of the National Front for Liberation" adopted in August 1967 by a so-called extraordinary congress of the front. That program had four major points, and many subordinate ones. The four major points called for uniting the country while fighting the Americans, building an "independent, peaceful, neutral and prosperous South Vietnam," restoring "normal relations between North and South Vietnam" and proceeding "toward peaceful reunification of the fatherland," and applying "a foreign policy of peace and neutrality."

It was clear from Kiem's speech that North Vietnamese troops would not be considered foreign troops.

He said international agreement would be reached for international supervision of the withdrawal of U.S. and allied troops. He said the United States would be expected to bear "full responsibility for the losses and devastation it has caused to the Vietnam in both zones" through bombing and other acts of war.

Xuong Thuy backed the demand for compensation by the United States for damages done to North Vietnam.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the session that the forces of North Vietnam and not the United States are intensifying the war.

Replying to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong allegations that the Nixon administration is stepping up military operations while talking peace, Lodge said: "The responsibility for any intensification of the fighting which has occurred or which may occur in the future must rest with the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong."

City Fires

Firemen answered two alarms early Wednesday afternoon. The first was to the Fair View Nursing Home, 1714 West 16th, at 12:48 p.m. Wednesday where a ballast in a fluorescent light burned out. There was no fire. Damage was estimated at $25.

At 1:05 p.m. firemen were called to 414 North Montauque where the city was burning debris from an old house. There was no damage.

Far-Out Phenomena Pursued

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Center for Short-Lived Phenomena is asking Congress for $10,000 to find such will-o-the-wisps as migrating squirrels and a disappearing island.

The center is a branch of the Smithsonian Institution that alerts scientists quickly to unexpected whims of nature, thus improving research opportunities, according to S. Dillon Ripley, Smithsonian secretary.

Significant biological and geophysical short-lived events, including fireballs, earthquakes and volcano eruptions, are reported within hours by a network of 836 correspondents in 86 countries, said Ripley.

Members of a House appropriations subcommittee were not certain whether to believe Ripley or not when he also described items like seiche, red tide and migrating rare animals in asking for the $10,000 budget next fiscal year. The recent testimony was released today.

"What were the rare animal migrations?" inquired Chairman Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash.

"One was of gray squirrels, throughout the central eastern states," replied Ripley.

Rep. Wendell Wyatt, R-Ore., wanted to know what a seiche is.

"It is very much like a tidal wave," said Ripley. And the red tide, asked Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-Pa.

"It is a small marine organism which is brightly colored red," Ripley explained. "When these aggregate in vast quantities, hundreds of millions of organisms, they create what is called a red tide because the water coming in shore is discolored by this." The growth cuts off oxygen, smothering marine life and creating a cleanup problem.

Ripley said the center took part in 70 fleeting events during 1968 including 20 major earthquakes, 12 volcanic eruptions including the birth and disappearance of a volcanic island, 11 fireballs, five major oil spills, five fish kills, one red tide, one seiche, one sea surge, and two rare animal migrations.

Accidents

A 1965 Chevrolet driven west on 16th by Barbara J. Esquivel, 24, 2707 South Grand, and a 1964 Ford driven south on Limit by Lora Reser Gardner, 34, Lincoln, were involved in an accident at the intersection of 16th and Limit at 2:33 p.m. Wednesday.

The right front of the Chevrolet and the left rear of the Ford were damaged in the accident.

Mrs. Esquivel was issued a police summons for careless and imprudent driving.

A two-car accident occurred at the intersection of 16th and Grand at 3:13 p.m. Wednesday.

Involved were a 1966 Ford driven north on Grand by William L. Wheeler, Jr., 30, Hughesville, and a 1959 Chevrolet driven by James I. Cranfield, 27, 904 South Montauque.

The front of the Ford and the rear of the Chevrolet were reported damaged.

According to the report, the Chevrolet backed into the Ford.

A 1968 Ford owned by Kenneth Hugh Neill, 21, 1202 South Brown, was involved in a hit-and-run accident while parked on Bing's parking lot Tuesday night.

The right side of the Ford was reported damaged.

The intersection of 16th and Limit was the scene of a two-car accident at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Involved were a 1967 Dodge driven east on 16th by Gordon T. Parker, 32, 1800 South Harrison, and a 1961 Oldsmobile driven east on 16th by Nina Ruth Grimes, 63, 808 West Sixth.

Damage was to the left side of the Dodge and the right rear of the Oldsmobile.

The police report indicated that the Oldsmobile backed into the Dodge.

Two vehicles collided at 16th and Collins at 6:57 a.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1965 Ford driven north on Collins, but stopped in traffic, by Danny E. Thompson, 621 West Seventh, and a 1967 Chevrolet pickup truck backing south on Collins and driven by Vernon Roger Ditton, 905 East 13th.

The right front of the Ford and the rear of the pickup were damaged.

No injuries were reported in a two-car collision at 16th and Engineer at 8:09 p.m. Wednesday.

Involved were a 1963 Ford driven south on Engineer by Elizabeth P. Green, 820 West Third, and a 1967 Ford driven east on 16th by James W. Wallace, 1002 South Mildred.

The front of the Ford was damaged.

Three persons complained of minor injuries after two cars collided at Ninth and New York at 7:33 a.m. Thursday.

Treated at Bothwell Hospital and dismissed were Mary Pearl Thuston, 217 West Cooper; Evelyn Naylor, 2026 East Sixth; and Carlo Jo Naylor, age 5. Both women complained of back and neck pains, while the girl received an abrasion on the forehead.

According to police, involved in the accident were a 1962 Dodge driven east on Ninth by Mary Pearl Thuston, and a 1968 Ford driven south on New York by Ralph Dean Naylor, 2700 South Woodlawn.

The front of the Ford and left side of the Dodge were extensively damaged.

Police Report

Mrs. William Burtis, 920 South Massachusetts, told Sedalia police Wednesday that someone had placed a garden hose inside her house and then turned the water on.

At the same time, she said, three of her lawn chairs were placed in the middle of the street.

provide additional services and facilities for the families employed on the projects. When the projects are completed, the families often move away and the recently constructed real property is not taxable. The community facilities remain and must be paid for."

Guy, in a letter last week to Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he should not oppose the ABM system because it would be good for this state's economy.

"I wish to state emphatically that there are priority needs such as education, health services and reclamation projects that would have a higher social priority and would be far better for this state's economy than the ABM system," he said.

Guy said the Safeguard promises to "be like other North Dakota military facilities—obsolete before it can be built."

Mark Founding Of the Legion At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fifty years ago today, a group of World War I veterans met in St. Louis to draft the constitution for an organization to be known as the American Legion.

Some of the men who founded the Legion, March 15-17, 1919, in Paris, France, and who attended the statewide founding caucus in St. Louis two months later, are on hand to help commemorate the event.

The national executive committee of the Legion elected to hold its regular semiannual meeting outside its headquarters city of Indianapolis, Ind., for the first time in 25 years, and only for the second time in its history, to observe the anniversary.

Members of the Society of American Legion Founders will be guests tonight at the national commander's banquet for the executive committee. Congressman L. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina will be the speaker.

Legionnaires will observe another anniversary Friday, the 100th anniversary of organized baseball, a game with which the Legion has become closely identified.

National Commander William C. Doyle will present a plaque to baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and National League President Warren Giles at a ceremony preceding the St. Louis Cardinals-San Diego Padres game Friday night.

Antibodies Were Found In Animals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Antibodies of a rare virus which can cause death or serious disease are reported to have been discovered in animals and birds near the Army's Dugway, Utah, biological warfare center where thousands of sheep died from what was described as nerve gas poisoning last year.

The report was made by Ramparts magazine which said discovery of the virus antibodies was first noted in a technical journal called Bacteriological Reviews two years ago. That report was never brought to the public's attention, the magazine said.

The virus antibodies are unrelated to the sheep deaths, for which the Army paid $376,000 in damages, and so far no deaths of illness have been reported as a result of them.

The antibodies, produced by Venezuelan equine encephalitis, were discovered in birds and animals in the Dugway-Salt Lake City area, the Ramparts article says.

There was no comment from the Defense Department or Dugway Proving Ground officials and the Bacteriological Reviews speculate the antibodies could have been introduced by migratory birds.

Nuclear Treaty Step is Taken By the Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government took a major step today toward ratification of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

The treaty was signed by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain last July 1 but does not become binding until ratified.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported today that the Soviet Council of Ministers submitted the treaty to the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet—parliament—for ratification. It said that the Presidium passed the treaty on to the foreign affairs commissions of the two houses of Parliament.

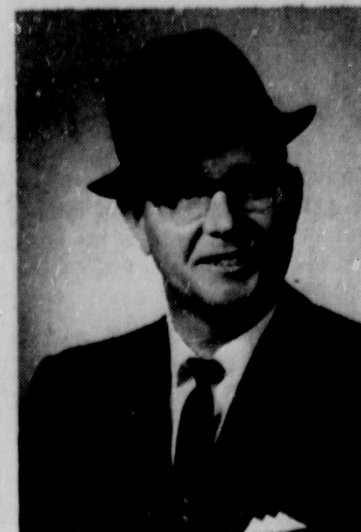

The final decision, Tass reported, will be made by the Supreme Soviet, which is expected to hold its next session in June. Parliamentary approval of government recommendations is usually a matter for course here.

The non-proliferation treaty is intended to prevent nations without nuclear weapons from acquiring them.

Four Missourians On War Dead List

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's list of servicemen who have died in Vietnam included four Missourians Wednesday.

They were Army Capt. Norville M. Henn Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Norville M. Henn Sr., St. Louis, killed in action; Army Spec. 5 Rodney J. Black, son of Mrs. Betty J. Keathley, Springfield, changed from missing to killed in action; Army WO 1 Michael E. LeMaster, son of Mrs. Patricia A. Baker, Webb City, and Army Spec. 4 Ernest D. Menley, husband of Mrs. Brenda G. Menley, Neelyville, both dead, not as a result of hostile action.

Boyd E. Massey, local district manager for Federated Insurance Companies, has won an achievement award as one of the companies' top men in new premium sales during 1968. He will attend a meeting of the companies to be held at the Chateau Frontenac Hotel in Quebec City, Canada, this month.

Share of Fee Is Canceled By Justice

BOSTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas has canceled his share of a fee for a speech today at Northeastern University.

Tom Conrad, student chairman of the committee sponsoring Fortas' appearance, said the fee was canceled Monday by the Harry Walker Agency in New York, which booked the speech.

Conrad said, "The agency called Monday and said the fee would be only $675, instead of the original $2,000." He said no reason was given.

The student chairman said the agency told him the $675 was to cover the agency's commission and Fortas' travel expenses from Washington to Boston.

Life Magazine in its current issue says that in 1966 Fortas was given a $20,000 fee by the family foundation of Louis Wolfson, and that Fortas returned the money 11 months later.

Wolfson on April 25 began serving a one-year sentence for stock fraud.

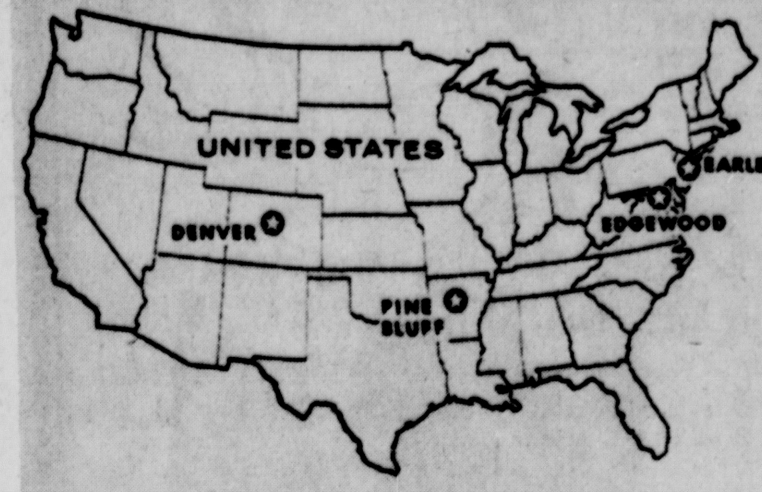

Fortas could not be reached for comment on the Northeastern cancellation. However, a spokesman for the justice said in Washington that "he hasn't been accepting fees for speeches for quite some time."

Eighty Brownie Girl Scouts from Heber Hunt, Mark Twain, Horace Mann, and Green Ridge schools enjoyed a day at Camp Sakajawea recently.

Plan to Haul Army Gas Said Unsafe By Critics

Poison Train

Rep. Richard McCarthy (D-N.Y.) said that a Pentagon plan to transport across the country 1,100 rail cars filled with World War II poison gas to be dumped at sea is dangerous. The gas will be delivered to an ammunition depot at Earle, N.J. (see map) from military arsenals in Colorado, Arkansas and Maryland beginning May 16. (UPI)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army plans to haul 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical warfare gas bombs overland by train and then sink them in the Atlantic Ocean are being attacked in Congress as possibly unsafe.

Within minutes of the Pentagon announcement of the plans Wednesday evening, Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., called a meeting for today of his House Foreign Affairs subcommittee to investigate.

Gallagher said the plans "pose a serious problem for population centers through which the gondola cars will pass, as well as to fishing banks off the United States."

The Army insisted the shipment and disposal procedures can be executed safely. Maj. Gen. Wendell Coates, the Army's information chief, conceded judgment is involved in possible pollution factors in the seawater.

Unless tentative plans change, outmoded nerve gas bombs, mustard gas and tear gas in steel cylinders are to be loaded between May and August into a dozen trains of 50 to 70 cars each. The troop-guarded trains with safety crews aboard would move slowly to the Naval Ammunition Depot at Earle, N.J., near Asbury Park about 60 miles south of New York City.

At the Earle depot, the cylinders would be loaded aboard four derelict Liberty ships, towed to sea and sunk in 7,200 feet of water off the Continental shelf, the Army said.

The disposal, if carried out, would be the largest ever attempted by the Army, the spokesman said.

The outdated post-World War II gas will come mainly from arsenals at Rocky Mountain, Colo., and Edgewood, Md. "Minor quantities" will be shipped from arsenals at Anniston, Ala., and Lexington, Ky.

Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y., a critic of gas stockpiling and movement, said in letters to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe: "A number of safety factors appear to have been under-estimated."

He asked Laird to halt the shipment plans for now.

Rep. William T. Cahill, R-N.J., asked the Department of Transportation to withdraw permission and waivers pending an investigation of the possible dangers.

earning $20,000 with total deductions of $2,500 would only be allowed to take off $500 under the new plan, Mills said. All charitable donations would remain deductible.

The standard 10 per cent deduction for those earning $10,000 or less would be eliminated entirely.

Tell Their Story

The Senate Judiciary subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly opened hearings on arbitrary policy cancellations by insurance companies. The investigation centers on Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Huey, Stafford, Va., whose policy was not renewed by the Royal Indemnity Insurance Co., New York City, because of "personal habits within your household." The couple is shown testifying before the subcommittee. (UPI)

Treasury Head Still Target Of Lawmaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Banking Chairman Wright Patman, who takes credit for forcing Andrew Mellon to quit as Treasury secretary in 1932, renewed his attack today against current Treasury chief David M. Kennedy.

Patman said he would spell out on the House floor new details of Kennedy's financial arrangements with Continental Illinois National Bank in Chicago. Kennedy quit his $200,000-a-year job as bank chairman in January and says he sees no conflict of interest in serving as Treasury secretary.

The aide said Patman was not calling for Kennedy's impeachment immediately as he did for Mellon's in 1932.

Patman was 38 and a three-year veteran in Congress when he took after Mellon who had been appointed 11 years earlier by President Warren G. Harding.

He gathered information for six months about the multi-millionaire's financial connections. Then in a Jan. 6, 1932, House speech Patman called for Mellon's impeachment.

Patman has noted that, after two weeks of Judiciary Committee hearings and word that Mellon might be asked to testify, President Herbert Hoover named the 76-year-old secretary to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Smith-Cotton Spring Formal Will Be Friday

"A Night in the Jungle" will be the theme for the 1969 Spring Formal, sponsored by the senior class of Smith-Cotton. This last dance of the school year will begin at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the Agricultural Building at the State Fairgrounds. All Smith-Cotton students and their dates are invited, and no admission will be charged. The Spring Formal will be paid for by the senior class, which has earned the money from working on various projects this year.

The band will be "Three Bears and a Gazelle" from the University of Missouri. The seniors have been directed in their planning by Mrs. Jean Routsong and Armin Ciersdorff, senior class sponsors.

Give Blood For Troops In Vietnam

SPRINGFIELD, MO. (AP) — A total of 537 pints of blood was donated Wednesday by college students and residents of the Springfield area for servicemen in Vietnam.

The blood drive was sponsored by a Southwest Missouri State College student group called "RESPECT."

A spokesman for the group, George Demogenes, said the drive was an attempt to help men their own age fighting in Vietnam, not an endorsement of the war.

Thirty-two Army doctors and medical specialists from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and Ft. Knox, Ky., assisted by physicians from the Greene County Medical Society, took the blood at the National Guard Armory.

Students from Southwest Missouri State, Drury, Central Bible, Baptist Bible and Evangel colleges donated the blood.

Mills Works To Simplify Tax System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says his committee is working on an income tax revision plan that would eliminate most deductions and cut taxes for those in the $10,000-$20,000 salary bracket.

Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Wednesday over-all tax rates for individuals then could be cut to vary from 5 to 50 per cent. The rates now range from 14 to 70 per cent.

The Treasury Department has been asked by Mills to check the plan on its computers to determine the effect on revenue.

The object would be neither to gain nor lose revenue over-all but to simplify preparation and auditing of income tax returns, Mills said.

Deductions for such items as medical expense, interest and local taxes would be allowed only to the extent the total exceeded 10 per cent of the taxpayer's gross income. A person

Cadillac

If it's the only time you have to yourself, make the most of it.

After a long business day, it's a wonderful feeling to enter the relaxing and luxurious world of Cadillac. For no other motor car so completely insulates its owner from unnecessary distractions and undue demands.

The inherent quietness of a Cadillac is immediately apparent. You sense it in the solid, precise sound of the closing door; in the whisper-quiet response of the big engine; in the isolation from road noise; in the surprisingly muted sounds of street traffic.

As you lean back, enjoying the comfort of the contoured cushions with the seat adjusted to the position of your preference, you experience a most welcome release from the tensions of the day.

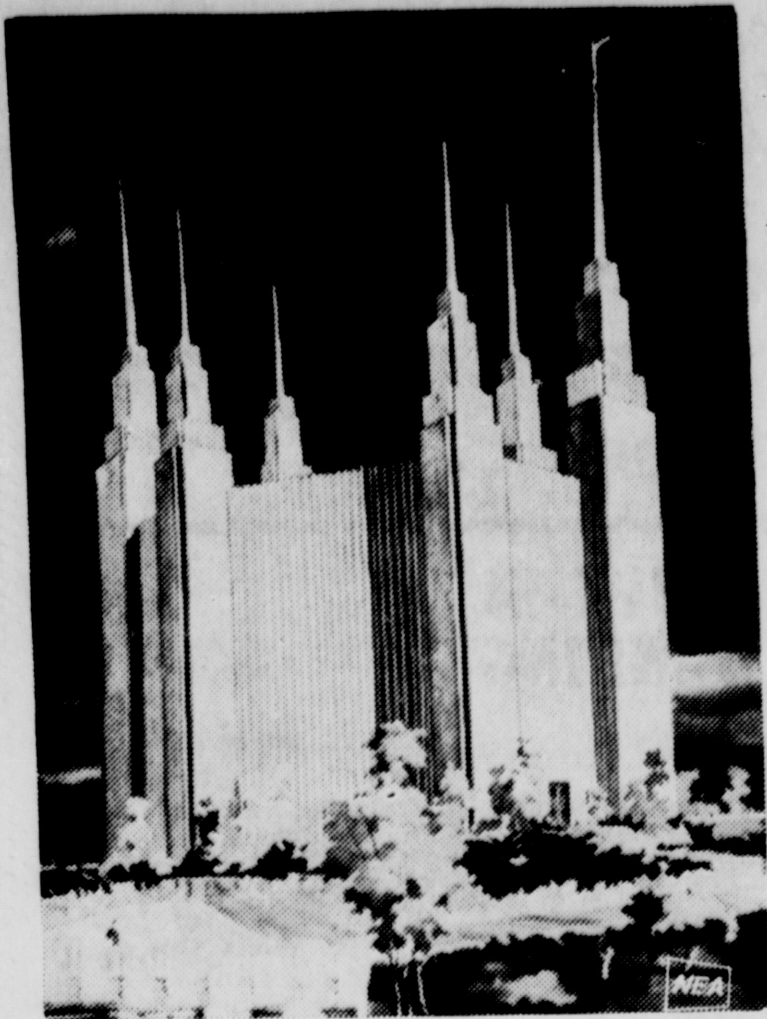

And how reassuring it is, as you blend effortlessly into the flow of the freeway, to have at your command the precise, sure response of Cadillac's variable-ratio power steering and power front disc brakes.

At the end of your journey you arrive home, pleasantly refreshed and relaxed, ready to enjoy the evening. And, chances are, you'll be looking forward to the advent of another day and to another quiet hour with your Cadillac.

GM's Experimental Cars Are Unveiled in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors took the wraps off some of its experimental cars today but made it clear they were years away from becoming a reality on the highway.

The parade of 26 experimental cars included three wheelers and models powered by steam, electricity and hybrid electric-gasoline power plants. Nearly all of them were much smaller than today's cars and some were almost toylike in size.

GM said it had experimented with a nuclear-powered auto but dropped the project as being impractical.

Edward N. Cole, GM president, told 100 newsmen at GM's huge Technical Training Center in suburban Warren that despite all the experiments, the auto firm was convinced the internal combustion engine—the type that powers your car today—is the best unit available.

"All these advance power concepts have advantages—real or potential—over the internal combustion engine with lower pollutant emissions being a major plus in virtually every case," Cole said.

"But each of them also has major disadvantages which reduce its practical value as an all-around competitor to the internal combustion engine. If any new power plants are to achieve broad usage—with no reductions in safety, economy and convenience—major technological break-throughs will be required."

He said improvements in emission control systems in GM's 1970 line of cars would boost by 10 per cent the current 60 per cent control of such emissions. "We have made substantial progress toward cleaner air," he added.

Two steam cars were among the top attention getters at the show. One was a modified 1969 Pontiac Gran Prix, the other a 1969 Chevrolet sedan.

The steam car, which has been one of GM's top priority research projects, was said to have the advantage of low noise level, low air pollutant tendencies and good torque characteristics. Its disadvantages include added weight, freezing of the water needed for the steam operation, and difficulties in lubrication.

The problem of the commuter who needs transportation for short distances with little freeway driving came in for attention as five limited urban transportation experimental vehicles were shown.

Two were gasoline powered, one was electric powered, a fourth was driven by a hybrid gasoline-electric system and the fifth was a mockup body and chassis with a hybrid system power plant. Four were built to carry two passengers only while the fifth had two adults in the front seat and two children in the back.

Kirkland, for the past nine years Meany's chief advisor, has the title of executive assistant.

Among those mentioned as likely to fight for the nation's top labor post, which carries with it a $70,000 a year salary, are union presidents such as I. W. Abel of the Steelworkers, Paul Hall of the Seafarers' Union and Joseph A. Beirne of the Communications Workers.

Kirkland at 47 is a virtual youngster in the federation dominated by oldsters. But he has 20 years experience as a rising behind-the-scenes power.

Meany, who will be 75 in August, reportedly has been toying for some time with the idea of stepping down, but sources said would never do so without trying to name his successor.

Meany had said several times during the long policy dispute with Reuther that if he had had any thought of quitting, Reuther's critical attacks wiped any such thought from his mind. Reuther called Meany's leadership "stagnant" in organizing, bargaining, foreign policy and social programs.

Now that Reuther has burned virtually all bridges with the AFL-CIO and hooked up in an alliance with the long outcast Teamsters union, Meany reportedly no longer believes Reuther could re-enter the AFL-CIO and persuade other federation king-makers to name him president.

'Mr. Labor' Plans For Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany won't step down as "Mr. Labor" before 1971, but he already is planning his retirement and selection of his heir to the powerful post, well-placed sources report.

These sources see the announced retirement of AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer William F. Schnitzler as the opening move in the first major leadership change in the federation's 14-year history.

Labor insiders said the development also means that Meany now considers it impossible for his arch-rival, Walter Reuther, to succeed him.

Reuther pulled his 1.6-million United Auto Workers, largest of the 122 AFL-CIO unions, out of the federation last year after a long and bitter quarrel with Meany.

Most labor sources give the inside track to a relatively unknown, soft-spoken former merchant ship captain, Lane Kirkland, to succeed Schnitzler in the $45,000-a-year post as secretary-treasurer of the 13.6-million-member labor federation, and to be Meany's choice to succeed him as president.

Kirkland, for the past nine years Meany's chief advisor, has the title of executive assistant.

Astronaut Rank Back To Shepard

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Alan B. Shepard Jr., the first American rocketed into space, has returned to the ranks of the active astronauts six years after an ear ailment clipped his wings and landed him behind a desk.

Shepard, 45, was declared healthy and ready to fly Wednesday by flight surgeons at the National Aeronautics and Alan B. Shepard, Jr.

Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

His return to flight status came eight years and two days after the lean Navy captain led America into the manned space flight era with a 15-minute trip aloft on May 5, 1961.

In the Mercury capsule "Freedom 7" he soared to more than 100 miles in a suborbital flight. Shepard later referred to it as America's "first baby step" in manned space flight.

Shepard got the call to command the first Gemini flight, but he suddenly found he was unable even to fly solo in a small airplane. He had contracted an inner ear disorder called labyrinthitis. The disorder, attributed to an infection, caused dizziness and nausea and Shepard was grounded by flight surgeons.

Shepard took annual checkups and kept in shape.

He took over a desk job as chief of the astronaut office guiding the astronaut training program.

Last May he underwent surgery on the bothersome ear. After a year of healing he has been declared flight-fit once more.

Shepard is one of the original seven American astronauts named in April of 1959. Only he and Air Force Col. L. Gordon

No Setback for Biafra Despite Loss of a City

UMUAHIA, Nigeria (AP) — Federal troops are patrolling the streets of Umuahia, Biafra's former capital, but the Biafrans appear to be in a better military position than before they lost the city.

The federal troops claimed Umuahia April 23, but at the same time the Biafrans claimed a five-month siege and took the town of Owerri, 30 miles west of Umuahia.

Besides the psychological boost of dealing the federal troops their first major setback in 19 months, the victory at Owerri enables the Biafrans to provide better protection for the jungle airstrip through which they receive arms and relief supplies.

Cooper are still on active space duty. Of the others in the original seven, John Glenn, Scott Carpenter and Walter M. Schirra Jr. have resigned from the space program.

Donald K. Slayton, the only one of the seven who has never flown into space, is grounded with a heart ailment and is head of the flight crew operations division here.

The airstrip, named Annabelle, is near Uli, 35 miles northwest of Owerri, Eastern Nigeria's fifth largest town and the last major city left to the secessionists. Orlu, the new provisional Biafran capital, is six miles west of Owerri.

The exchange of Umuahia for Owerri also means that Biafran territory still adds up to about 2,900 square miles, about the same it was before Umuahia fell. However, this is only a third of the 9,000 square miles Biafra started out with when it left the Nigerian federation May 30, 1967, and the 22-month-old civil war began.

The Biafrans also claim they hold the bush in many areas where the federals hold cities and main roads. Some officers said the perimeter around Umuahia extends only 500 yards beyond the city.

In contrast, the 30-mile road north of Umuahia is heavily defended because it is the main supply link for the federal

Young Thief Can't Live With His Crime

LA PUENTE, Calif. (AP) — The theft of a six-foot boa constrictor was reported to sheriff's officers—by an 18-year-old boy who said he did it for money.

The youth said his conscience bothered him after he and a 15-year-old companion had taken the snake, named Charlie, from its cage Sunday at Bassett High School. They sold it to a pet shop for $10.

Remorseful, the older boy went back Wednesday with the $10, returned Charlie to school and confessed. He got a stern lecture.

troops to their sector headquarters in Okigwe.

The arrival of the rainy season at the end of the month will turn the road into a muddy quagmire, but federal troops will make every effort to defend it so that the Biafrans don't cut them off and repeat the siege of Owerri.

The federal troops are at the head of a narrow salient thrusting deep into Biafran territory. Meanwhile relief supplies as well as arms are stockpiling in Biafra. The Red Cross now says it believes starvation has virtually been eliminated.

New Hope For Addict In Drugs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Two drugs show promise of helping heroin addicts kick their habits. One of them works 10 times as well if the addict has a wife or steady girl friend, a group of psychiatrists says.

The drugs are methadone and cyclazocine. Methadone is a narcotic substitute for heroin with none of its bad effects. Cyclazocine, nonnarcotic, blocks the action of heroin.

Methadone works better with one type of addict, cyclazocine is more effective with another type.

Results of experiments with the drugs were reported to the convention of the American Psychiatric Association today by Drs. Richard B. Resnick, Max Fink and Alfred M. Freedman of New York Medical College.

A questionnaire technique indicates which drug would be most helpful in a given case, Resnick said.

Methadone appears better for addicts who feel that heroin reduces their anger, tension and disappointments, and increases their ability to work or study. They have physical or metabolic needs for a drug.

Cyclazocine appears better for addicts who use heroin as a way of getting along better socially, even though they realize that heroin doesn't really help them function.

Fourteen of 31 addicts studied have stayed on cyclazocine successfully for as long as three years, Resnick said. The others dropped out after one week.

Most likely to succeed were men having a continuing relationship with a wife or girl friend, he added. Their chances of staying off heroin were about 10 times greater than those of other men.

Observing this, the psychiatrist gave the women the task of seeing that the men took their cyclazocine regularly.

This prevented the addicts from reducing the dosage so they could "get high" just for a day, and perhaps slip back to regular use of heroin.

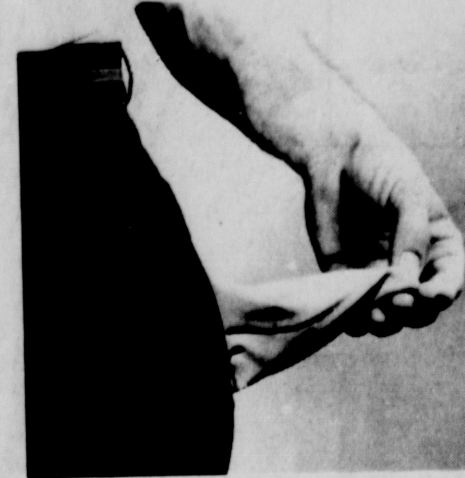

All but one of the 14 men continuing to take cyclazocine have remained employed, the psychiatrist said.

'Gipsy Moth's' Sails Sell for High Price

LONDON (AP)—The sails of Gipsy Moth IV, which helped take Sir Francis Chichester around the world in 1966-67, were sold for $1,348 at Christie's Wednesday.

The well-worn canvas sails were sold separately. Chichester, who was at the sale with his wife, bought one for $120.96. The money will go toward construction of a drydock at Greenwich in which the Gipsy Moth will be put on permanent display.

New Twist Of a TV Technique

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Glen Campbell's CBS variety hour, one of the few evening programs that has not gone into reruns, reversed a familiar theatrical device Wednesday night.

Instead of a series of black-outs—short sketches or gags that end with a suddenly black screen—it presented a series of "white-ins." They consisted of bits of dialogue spoken when the screen was black, with the gag coming when the lights flashed on. One sketch had an employer firing a man, explaining that he acted the part of the "office clown." On came the lights and the fellow actually was a clown, complete with makeup and fright wig.

It was not earth shaking and some of the "white-ins" didn't come off. But, after all, little in TV's entertainment sector this season has been very original or has lingered long in most viewers' minds.

A single picture that might summarize the past season is a closeup of someone's fingers plucking a guitar. There must have been thousands of such shots since singers with guitars were the most popular commodities of the three networks.

As for the one-shot specials—shows that put some class in the schedules—there has been a scattering of memorable ones. This viewer's choice as the best would be NBC's "Male of the Species" with Paul Scofield, which did not receive any Emmy nomination although Scofield did. Another favorite was ABC's "Thanksgiving Visitor" and Geraldine Page's moving performance.

NBC's original play, "Teacher, Teacher" about a mentally retarded boy also sticks in the mind. But those highly exploited "CBS Playhouse" and NBC "On Stage" originals were disappointing for the most part.

"Laugh-In" in its irreverent, uninhabited way, remains a distinct and distinctive TV phenomenon and certainly has been the brightest spot in the weekly schedules. The Smothers Brothers war with their network was more interesting than most of their programs or their editorializing.

Television programming practices have been under such sharp scrutiny by various Washington sources that the product on our screens most often was bland and boring. The average viewer must occasionally wonder why television's mild use of sex and violence is so often decried in Washington and even investigated when motion pictures and books take greater liberties than ever before.

Toll of Dead In Viet War Is Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported 205 Americans killed in combat last week in the Vietnam war, a 25 per cent increase over the previous week but near the average for the past month of relatively light ground action.

The weekly casualty report also listed 1,288 Americans wounded, 676 of whom were hospitalized.

A total of 163 Americans had been reported killed in action the previous week, the lowest weekly toll since Jan. 11.

The enemy death toll last week was 3,414, the U.S. Command said, compared with 3,713 the previous week. South Vietnamese forces reported 168 government troops killed in action and 678 wounded, the first time in seven weeks the total of South Vietnamese deaths have fallen below the American toll.

The previous week the South Vietnamese reported 237 killed.

The report raised the total number of Americans killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, to 34,651 and the total number of enemy dead in that period to 491,696.

Will Present Photo Awards At MU Session

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Awards for photography will be presented today during Journalism Week at the University of Missouri.

W.E. Garrett of National Geographic Magazine was named Magazine Photographer of the Year; S. Sgt. Ron Smith of the Air Force was chosen Military Photographer of the Year; and Perry Riddle of the Chicago Daily News was named Newspaper Photographer of the Year.

They were cited in the 26th annual Pictures-of-the-year competition sponsored by the National Press Photographers Association, the University of Missouri School of Journalism and World Book Encyclopedia Science Services Inc.

Rumors of Retirement Are Doused by Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. Edgar Hoover, 74, dousing rumors he will step down Saturday on his 45th anniversary as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said today he has no plans to retire.

"I have many plans and aspirations for the future," said Hoover. "None of them includes retirement."

"As long as God grants me the health and the stamina to continue, I have no ambition other than to remain in my post as director of the FBI."

Hoover, who told of his plans in written responses to questions submitted by The Associated Press, is more than four years past the mandatory retirement age for federal employees, a requirement waived in his case by former President

Lyndon B. Johnson and President Nixon.

Hoover claimed his five-year-old prediction that Communists would launch a new youth-oriented campaign in this country had come to pass with the emergence of militant "New Left" student groups.

"Although virtually devoid of an effective youth arm of its own," he said, "the Communist party has succeeded in penetrating and influencing a number of militant youth organizations—particularly those of the so-called New Left."

He named only the Students for a Democratic Society.

"The Communist Party, USA, considers the field to be so fertile at this time, in fact," he said, "that it presently is making plans to start a new youth organization this fall."

Youth Dies in Wreck

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Daniel L. Burton, 18, of Independence, Mo., was killed Wednesday when his car veered off Interstate 70 and hit a bridge support at Leed's Road in Kansas City, the highway patrol said.

ing plans to start a new youth organization this fall."

On the subject of crime, the FBI director said he sees no immediate prospect for a reversal in the trend toward huge annual increases in serious crimes but "the long-range picture is much more promising."

As reasons for his optimism, he cited a greater public "awareness of the crime problem and a keener alertness to weaknesses which exist in the administration of justice," and said "the caliber of law enforcement in this country, which has improved tremendously during my lifetime, should continue to improve in the years ahead."

MU Chapter Members Commemorate Founding

Several members of Mu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma from the Sedalia area participated in the program commemorating the founding of the international honorary society for women educators, presented at a birthday brunch held at the Methodist Church in Higginsville Saturday.

The founding of the society May 11, 1929 in Austin, Texas, and conditions for women teachers in the "twenties" which preceded the occasion were described in a musical skit, "Women Teachers to the Calling," presented under the direction of Mrs. Jo Ann Lindsay of Windsor. Mrs. Mildred Shultz, Warrensburg, music teacher at Whiteman Elementary School, was pianist, and Dr. Bessie Elliott, professor of English at C.M.S.C. was narrator.

Members of the chorus were: Mrs. Mildred Fern Leaton, Mrs. Imogene Peoples, and Mrs. Anna Belle Lee, Sedalia; Mrs. Louise McDowell, Warrensburg, principal of Whiteman Elementary School; Mrs. Theola Bradley, Mrs. Mary Lou Foster, and Mrs. Clara Baltz, Warrensburg; and Mrs. Virginia Drain and Mrs. Helen Sheehan, Higginsville. A ukelele accompaniment for one of the numbers was played by Mrs. Leaton.

Mrs. Evelyn Gaugh, Warrensburg, teacher at Whiteman Elementary School, presided at the business meeting which preceded the program. Memorial tributes to three members who have died since last May were given by close associates. Mrs. Mary Lucille Larson, principal of Southeast School in Warrensburg, paid tribute to a charter member of Mu Chapter, Miss Dora Crane, who served as teacher and principal in Warrensburg for forty years; Mrs. Monia Morris, Warrensburg, paid tribute to another charter member, Miss Ruth Fitzgerald, who was teacher, supervisor, and acting principal of the C.M.S.C.

Laboratory School for 32 years; and Mrs. Elizabeth Haston, Higginsville, eulogized Mrs. Gweneith Gallatin, member of Mu Chapter since 1946 and a teacher and principal at Higginsville for more than 30 years. At the close of each tribute a white candle in a gold candelabra was lit in memory of each deceased member.

Special music for the brunch was provided by the Higginsville High School Quartet, directed by Mrs. Drain.

Members of Mu Chapter from Sedalia and vicinity who attended the brunch, other than those in the program, were: Miss Edythe Couey, Miss Ida Cruzan, Mrs. Edith Donath, Miss Frances Garman, Miss Nell Longan, Miss Minnie Murphy, and Miss Bessie Perkins, all of Sedalia; Mrs. Patty Wagenknecht, Smithton; Mrs. Marguerite Hansen, Ottumwa; Mrs. Marie Bradley, Windsor; and Miss Mildred Dillon, Warsaw.

Expect Huge Family Following Marriage

WELLSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — When widower James W. Brown marries Mrs. Stella Wright, a widow, on May 18, it will be a union totalling 168 years with 285 grandchildren great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren between them.

Brown, 91, of Alliance, and Mrs. Wright, 77, of Wellsville, received their marriage license Tuesday in Columbiana County probate court in Lisbon.

Fire Board Meets

BUNCETON — The Rural Fire Department met May 5 for their regular board session.

Board members are president, Charles Dilthey; vice president, Herbert Warmbrodt, Sr.; secretary-treasurer, J. W. Gerhardt, Doren Bumgardner, Carl Hein, Henry Friedrich and John Scott.

The annual membership meeting to be held May 27 was discussed.

It Didn't Work

This humble log cabin served as capitol of a state that never existed. Frontiersmen in eastern Tennessee formed the State of Franklin in 1784, but could not gain congressional approval and gave up four years later. For part of the period, the government operated from this Greenville structure. (NEA)

Nuclear Theft Possibilities Keeping AEC's Brass on Edge

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here's another nuclear nightmare to ponder: Suppose a gang of revolutionaries really wanted to turn the nation topsy-turvy. The way is clear. All they'd have to do is make, or steal, an atomic bomb — and use it to blackmail all the people of the land.

Impossible? Perhaps. Then again, perhaps not.

One of the growing worries at the Atomic Energy Commission is the very real possibility that someone, some group or some nation may be working on a plot to confiscate sophisticated U.S. nuclear material.

The chance has been pregnant for years, or as long as civilian trucks have been transporting such materials back and forth across the nation, to get them from one plant to another in the nuclear cycle.

Among other things, the materials include strategic amounts of enriched plutonium, the most important and rarest element of atomic bombs.

Except for the most advanced (i.e. dangerous) shipments, the material travels in much the same way anything else travels on U.S. roads — in plain vans, driven by ordinary teamsters, over lengthy stretches of often barren and lonely highway.

The worry, then, is this: That someone will one day hijack one of these shipments and thereafter use the goods either to build a private bomb, blackmail a government or fashion another world nuclear power.

AEC officials admit it's "conceivable."

"You can blue-sky any possibility," says Delmar Crowson, director of AEC safeguarding and material management. "The Mafia might do it, or maybe a bunch of kids — if you use your imagination, anything is possible."

However, Crowson adds, possibilities are not probabilities. And he for one doesn't think anyone is going to risk sticking up an AEC shipment.

In the first place, he says, the great majority of transported nuclear materials would be of little value to any thief. Most of it, he says, is of low enrichment and would take piles of both money and brains to turn it into any degree of nuclear workability.

And if the crooks wanted to steal something more immediately profitable — say a nuclear weapon itself — Crowson feels they'd be making a fatal error. The more sophisticated materials are not usually shipped without security; all nuclear weapons travel in armed convoys. So says Crowson, "anybody who tried to hijack a bomb would be killed."

At the Age of 103, She Keeps Learning

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Mary (Granma) Walker, who was illiterate for the first century of her life, celebrated her 103rd birthday Tuesday with the comment, "you're never too old to learn."

Three years ago—when she was 100—Mrs. Walker enrolled in a special class to learn the basic skills of reading and writing.

"Now I can read my Bible, the newspaper, and do a lot of things that I've never been able to do before," she said. Mrs. Walker says she was born in 1866 in Bullard County, Ala., and was raised in Montgomery.

"There was no time for schooling, because we always had to work hard at farming, blacksmithing, picking cotton and other things," she said.

Defense Contract Rules Called 'Watered Down'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy procurement specialist says the Nixon administration "watered down" defense contract guidelines, making it more difficult to continue using a procedure which has saved millions of taxpayer dollars.

Gordon W. Rule, director of the procurement control and clearance division of the Naval Material Command, further maintains the Pentagon must toughen up on late deliveries of poor quality, high-cost goods.

Rule was a reluctant witness Tuesday before a House government operations subcommittee that heard disclosures of high-level wrangling over cancellation of a contract for the F111B fighter-bomber.

"I would like the record to show I was invited to come here and did not ask to come," Rule said.

Rule outlined how he and a team of 40 defense specialists chopped $100 million from a contract with the Pratt and Whitney division of United Aircraft Corp., Hartford, Conn., for 2,000 F111 engines. They used a method called "should cost" pricing.

As Rule explained it, the Pentagon used the method when a contractor was the only source for an item. The government estimates costs and then says to the contractor, "You can run up all the costs you want but we'll only pay you what the engines should cost."

Rule said Pentagon guidelines of 1965 that allowed this were "watered down" Feb. 14 by the Nixon administration.

"The former language was clear," he said. "The new language is mumble-jumble."

Rule also said he wrote critical memoranda uncovered and put into the committee record by Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa.

Rule wrote of defense contractors in one late last year: "Industry today is smug and perhaps rightly so. They know that no one in the Department of Defense is going to take any action they do not like and today they have much justification for this attitude."

"No matter how poor the quality, how late the product and how high the cost, they know nothing will happen to

Rail Tank Cars In an Explosion

ALHAMBRA, Ill. (AP)—Three railroad tank cars filled with liquefied petroleum gas blew up following a derailment early today near Alhambra about 40 miles northeast of East St. Louis.

Illinois State Police said there were no known injuries. Four families, however, were evacuated from homes nearby.

Police said about 15 cars of the 130-car southbound freight left the tracks. The explosion followed and fire swept a vacant house trailer nearby.

The Three-Day Weekend Becoming More Popular

By PHILIP WECHSLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The American economy is slowly inching its way toward the three-day weekend.

Indicative of the trend, perhaps, are the passage of legislation fixing certain holidays to fall either on Friday or Monday and the beginning by some companies of an abbreviated form of the long weekend.

Reader's Digest began a four-day week for the month of May for its 2,800 workers. "With the institution of this annual four-day-per-week month, we are once again in the forefront of what I am convinced will eventually be a major trend," said DeWitt Wallace, co-chairman of the magazine located in Pleasantville, N.Y.

McDonald's restaurant chain began last week letting its office employees off at 1 p.m. Fridays until the end of the summer for a quicker start on the weekend. And employees, in the Chicago headquarters and six regional offices around the country, showed up for work dressed in sports clothes—on the orders of McDonald's president, Fred L. Turner.

"What's the point in giving everyone Friday afternoon off if they have to spend time getting home and changing clothes?" Turner said. "The summer weekend is a fact of American life and our hours are designed to give our employees a long weekend."

But he pointed out, however, office employees will observe 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. hours during the rest of the week to make up for the short Friday schedule.

Eighteen employees of the Bank of New York's fiduciary data control section also are receiving the dividend of a four-day week, although a bank spokesman emphasized they work the normal 35-hour week.

The spokesman explained the experiment began because most of the work in the section does not come into the office until after noon. Previously this resulted in a substantial amount of overtime. Now the employees work from noon to 9:45 p.m. and are scheduled so that the office is manned Monday through Friday.

Agreeing with the principle of a three-day weekend is Edward Cleary, president of a New York City electrical union local whose 10,000 members in the construction field are believed to have the shortest work day in the nation—five hours.

"With the work force growing each year and technological advances replacing more workers, the shorter work week is an economic necessity," says Cleary, who predicts the four-day week will come about in 10 years.

Some experts, however, foresee in 10 to 20 years adoption of a shorter work day or some other form of abbreviated schedule before the three-day weekend.

Phyllis Moerhle of the National Association of Manufacturers believes the American worker will have longer vacations, more holidays, earlier retirement and the shorter work day.

Mrs. Moerhle, director of the NAM's Institute on Industrial Relations, says "perhaps by the end of the century" the four-day week may be a reality.

The NAM states: "If we are to have a simultaneous increase in leisure and in standard of living, the two together cannot exceed the gain in productivity, which in the past has been at an average rate of about 2½ per cent per year.

"Thus it would appear that any abrupt, drastic and widespread reduction of the work week is ruled out."

Guide to Pork

If you have failed to appreciate the value of pork in the diet here are some facts of importance to consumers. Home economists in Agricultural Research Service describe pork as one of the most flavorful meats, high in nutritive value. It is a rich source of Thiamine (vitamin B-1) and supplies other B vitamins and iron. Pork liver is an excellent source of vitamin A.

Roast pork, flavorful and juicy... crisp bacon, filling the air with tempting aroma... and tantalizing baked ham exemplify some of the good eating provided by pork. Many other pork cuts, both fresh and cured, also appear on the table the year around.

Pork is high in nutritive value. An especially rich source of thiamine (vitamin B1) pork also supplies other B vitamins and iron. It is a good source of protein, too. Variety meats are rich in these nutrients.

Even calorie watchers may include pork in their meals. A three-ounce serving of roast fresh Boston butt with the fat trimmed off contains approximately 205 calories; a three-ounce serving of cured ham, fat trimmed off, contains about 160 calories.

Buying Pork

Pork is meat from pigs or hogs, usually under 1 year of age. It is sold fresh, cured, or frozen and smoked. Canned and frozen pork products, sausages, and luncheon meats are also available.

Learn to identify pork cuts by their appearance. Names of cuts differ in various parts of the country, and sometimes even from store to store in the same town.

Bones are an excellent guide to pork cut identification. With a little experience you can easily recognize the major cuts.

Pork Cuts

Crown roast is usually made from the rib sections of two pork loins. The ribs are "frenched" by removing meat from the end of each rib bone. Then the rib sections are shaped into a crown and fastened.

Butterfly chops are boneless double chops, split most of the way through the center and opened to form a butterfly shape.

Back ribs, or country ribs, are made by splitting lengthwise through the rib section near the backbone.

Side pork is trimmed to rectangular shape and has alternating layers of lean and fat.

Canadian bacon, cut from boneless pork loin, is cured and smoked and usually quite lean.

A pork cushion is a square, flat piece made by removing the bones from the shoulder. This provides a pocket for stuffing.

Pigs' feet are mostly bones and tendons and contain little lean meat. They are sold either pickled or fresh.

Cured Pork

Many pork cuts are cured to add distinctive flavor and variety. Before adequate refrigeration became common, pork was treated with a heavy salt brine to preserve it. Nowadays less salt is used because meats are cured primarily for flavor, not for preservation. "Country style" hams, available in some areas, are heavily salted and may require soaking before cooking.

After treatment with the curing ingredients, the meat may be smoked with a non-resinous wood for added flavor. Hickory is one of the most popular woods used for smoking meats.

Almost all cured and smoked hams are labeled either "fully cooked" or "cook-before-eating."

Other forms of cured pork available include pork shoulder picnic, pork shoulder butt, Canadian bacon, bacon, and cured loin.

Sausages and Luncheon Meats

These products can be divided into two categories, fresh and smoked sausages to be cooked before eating; and ready-to-serve sausages and luncheon meats.

Fresh pork sausage is made from ground pork blended with spices and other seasonings. It is sold in bulk or stuffed into casings or cloth bags. Link sausages may be fresh or smoked, in casings or skinless. Fresh pork sausage and uncooked smoked sausage must be cooked before they are eaten.

Ready-to-serve sausages and luncheon meats are fully cooked and can be served cold or heated. Luncheon meat is frequently sold sliced, but bologna and other sausages may be sold in sticks (whole rolls) or in chunks. Included in the ready-to-serve group are specialty loaf-style meats that contain cheese, pickles, olives, macaroni, or pimiento.

Variety Meats

Pork variety meats include liver, heart, kidneys, brains, tongue, and chitterlings.

Liver is fine-textured meat with a distinctive flavor. Whole liver should have a moist, smooth surface when purchased; sliced liver may appear slightly porous.

Heart is firm and smooth-textured. It requires long, slow cooking to make it tender.

Kidneys are smooth and bean-shaped and have a distinctive flavor. Brains are soft, tender, and delicate in flavor.

Tongue is firm in texture and is one of the less tender variety meats. Pork tongue usually is sold ready-to-serve.

Getting Rough

Rep. Robert Taft Jr., (R-Ohio) predicted a bill of impeachment will be filed against Justice Abe Fortas unless there is further explanation of a $20,000 fee he accepted from financier Louis Wolfson. Taft made the prediction in response to questions while explaining a bill he and Sen. Robert Griffin, right, (R-Mich.) plan to introduce requiring Federal judges to file information about their income, property holdings, gifts, honorariums and fees. (UPI)

A Missourian is Modest Over Pueblo Case Role

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Lt. (J.G.) Frederick C. Schumacher of Clayton, Mo., declined Wednesday night to characterize himself as "a mastermind" behind efforts of the intelligence ship Pueblos crew to resist their North Korean captors.

Schumacher, former Navy enlisted man Earl M. Kisler of St. Louis and eight other crewmen were praised by a Naval Court of Inquiry Wednesday for leadership and resistance during nearly 11 months of captivity in North Korea.

The court cited the 26-year-old Schumacher for devising "very effective methods to confuse and harass the North Koreans, as well as methods of conveying messages to the United States via letters and propaganda instruments."

Kisler, 23, a communications technician second class at the time of his capture, was commended for refusing to write a confession to the American press despite a "gruesome beating which rendered him unrecognizable to his shipmates for a week."

Schumacher, a reservist waiting for separation from the said resistance was a team effort.

"We played it by ear completely," he said from his suburban St. Louis home. "We were sort of second-guessing the North Koreans and tried to get one step ahead of them. As far as working to keep the crew's morale up, it worked well," he said.

Kisler has been visiting friends in Virginia before going to California to continue his education at a school not yet selected.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kisler, said Kisler's refusal to bow to his captors was not surprising.

"Earl's a little on the hard-headed side," his mother said. "He will be the first to admit when he's wrong. But if he makes up his mind, he will defy anybody and stick by his guns."

Mrs. Kisler said her son was beaten because he refused to write a confession to Newsweek magazine.

Mr. Kisler agreed that his son "has a mind of his own."

"If he gets into some kind of trouble, he's not inclined to back down. He's inclined to stick to his guns, to do what he thinks he should, even if it is a little rough."

Kisler said Earl gives all the Pueblo crewmen "a lot of credit for the way they conducted themselves."

Sun Cooler Than Reported at First

PASADENA Calif. (AP) — The sun isn't quite so hot as thought, it seems.

Engineering data from Mariners 6 and 7, both en route to Mars, shows heat from the sun is 125.7 watts per square foot instead of 129.5 showed by previous tests, Joseph A. Plamondon said today.

Plamondon, an engineer for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory's Marine '69 project said a new direct value for thermal radiation has resulted from the flights.

The new value used in simulating the sun's heat is nearly twice as accurate as previous measurement, Plamondon said.

The data is provided by special instruments which have monitored solar radiation since Mariner 6 was launched Feb. 24 and Mariner 7 on March 27.

Applications are Sought For JuCo Nursing Course

State Fair Community College is accepting applications for the fall practical nursing class, it was announced today by Dr. Joyce Fielding, director of admissions.

The first class of the program will graduate next August, and a new class of students will begin in September. The program of study is 52 weeks in length and students who satisfactorily complete the program are eligible to take the state licensing examination and, if successful, will become licensed practical nurses.

"We have received a number of applications and have received many inquiries about the program," Miss Frances Ward, co-ordinator of the School of Practical Nursing, stated. "In order to be admitted to the program applicants must have had a minimum of two years high school or the equivalent. Prospective students must submit an application, a health form, and a copy of their high school transcript or high school equivalency certificate. Then they are scheduled to take the special entrance tests and after these are completed, each student will be asked to come for an interview. Those applicants who are accepted will then be notified."

The class will be limited to 18 students. Classes will be conducted at the college and clinical experience will be gained at Bothwell Hospital. Fees for the 52-week course are $200 for in-district students and $324 for out-of-district students. Students can expect to pay an additional $85 for books, uniforms, insurance, and related supplies. Application and health forms may be

School Tax Is Passed By a City

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Public school officials rejoiced today over passage of a 12-mill tax increase that means classrooms will open on schedule next fall for 27,000 students.

"My third grade daughter was delighted," said city school Supt. Woodrow W. Zinser. "She jumped all over me when she found it had passed."

The vote in Tuesday's balloting was 27,244 to 20,459.

The first school levy increase here since 1963, it boosts school taxes to a total of 34.3 mills.

The new tax means the financial crisis which forced schools to close for five weeks last winter won't be repeated in September.

Six school tax proposals turned back since December 1966 brought education to a standstill here between Thanksgiving and last New Year's.

School officials said that, without the new tax, classes would not open next fall.

The total tax rate includes an earlier 7.3-mill levy that comes up for renewal in November, but officials are optimistic that voters will retain it.

"Since it is not an additional tax," said Zinser, "we hope it will be supported."

He termed approval of the new tax "a magnificent victory."

Youngstown is an industrial city of 166,000 population with wide ethnic and labor differences.

The city school system currently is operating on a $15.5 million annual budget with $14.8 million in expected income, which may be reduced by year's end.

"We've lost $14 million in property valuation," Zinser noted, "to urban renewal, highway development and the Youngstown State University."

The new tax will produce $6 million annually starting next year.

Zinser noted that the city's current 22.3 mill—$22.30 per $1,000 of assessed property value—school tax levy was the lowest among major Ohio cities.

Abe Harshman, school board president, said education costs still would be cut wherever possible "because 12 mills is not enough to do the job."

"But at least we can go back to recruiting teachers," said Hugh Slaughaupt, who took leave from a teaching job to work for the levy. "Until now we couldn't offer contracts for next year to teachers."

"We didn't know if schools would open. The school system is in debt, but at least we can keep going."

Deferment Sought By A McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 18-year-old son of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says he has asked his Washington, D.C., draft board for deferment as a conscientious objector.

Michael Benet McCarthy also told the Washington Post his father did not approve the decision 100 per cent. The youth said he requested the change April 10, five days after his 18th birthday.

"He doesn't agree with my position," Michael said, referring to his father. "He's not a pacifist. But he says I should go ahead if I believe I'm right."

McCarthy said he would not enter military service even if his request were denied.

Michael's father, the Minnesota Democrat, sought his party's presidential nomination last year on a platform strongly opposed to the war in Vietnam.

Area Clubs

The Busy Stitches Club met with Mrs. Betty DeHaven for the May meeting at which Mrs. Violet Leiter gave a report on the club's visit to the LaMonte Christian Home for Boys. She told, also, of the many items members of the club took with them for the home.

The club planned its annual wiener roast for the members and families to be held May 23 at the home of Mrs. Rosella Anderson.

Mrs. Leiter gave an article, "Grandpa's Traveling Ham."

Mrs. Elsie Barton was the game winner.

Garden Club No. 2 met April 11 at the home of Mrs. James Norlin with Mrs. Sam Ross and Mrs. A. Hugh Jones, assisting hostesses.

President, Mrs. P. E. Owens, opened the meeting. Mrs. Norlin reported that a tree had been purchased and the club voted to have it planted in Centennial Park.

Mrs. Willie Alfrey Presented the program topic, "The Value of Birds."

First place awards were given to Mrs. James Norlin, exhibit, "Design Using Bird Accessory," and Mrs. E. M. Johnson, horticulture.

Negro Demand To Lutherans For Payments

NEW YORK (AP) — Black militant James Forman has carried his campaign for $500 million in religious reparations to black people to the Lutheran Church, where he nailed his demands to the door.

Forman posted his "black manifesto" on the door of national headquarters of the Lutheran Church of America Tuesday.

In the 16th century, Luther nailed his theses to a church door to proclaim his split from Roman Catholicism.

"They're very reasonable demands," Forman told the Rev. Robert J. Marshall, president of the 3.5-million member church, who said he would study them.

Forman interrupted communion service at Riverside Church Sunday to press his demand for reparations. Forman said the $500 million is to compensate blacks for years of injustice by white people and their religious institutions.

Last week, Forman presented his demands at Episcopal Church headquarters here.

Forman's program was endorsed Tuesday by the Inter-religious Foundation for Community Organizations, a group of 14 predominantly white Protestant, Catholic and Jewish organizations.

Heave-ho for the Junk

Spring clean up in Sedalia next week ought to set some kind of record on the basis of the statement made by Councilman Jesse Robinson at city council meeting.

In a spirit of cooperation we quote him: "Anything which can be picked up by two men will be removed free of charge by city employees who will go to work at 7 a.m. Monday morning. Persons with anything to be hauled off should have it ready by that time."

If that doesn't stir up the natives between now and Monday morning then they are as dormant as an extinct volcano.

Imagine! "Anything that two men can lift will be hauled away." What an opportunity for Sedalians to get rid of all that accumulation of weighty junk in the garage or basement or attic.

This is a generous offer by the city, but there is a catch to it. All that heavy debris requiring two men to lift will have to be lifted first by the property owner to the alley or street line. Here's a chance for neighbors to get together on lift jobs that have deterred many from moving heavy objects to a point of disposal.

We are wondering how broad is "anything" in Councilman Robinson's category of things to be removed. We have a pile of rocks on the alley line. Two men can lift most of them except one. But we'd like to see the men try this one without dropping it on their toes.

If we can get the grandchildren to come over Sunday afternoon, there will be more debris ready by Monday morning. The garage is full of an accumulation which began 32 years ago.

Seriously, this clean up week business is not to be ignored and there is no doubt Sedalians will support the city's generous efforts to haul trash away. It's too bad some of the automotive junk laying around in Sedalia's front and back yards can't be lifted by two men and carried away before weeds grow high enough to hide the stuff.

By the way, while everyone is busy with Spring clean up, don't forget to review the family's plan for emergency escape in case of fire. If you don't have a plan, make one right away; and if you have one, hold some practice drills for everyone in the house.

Even though we have clean ups once a year, rubbish continues to accumulate as a fire hazard. Remember that homes are damaged or destroyed by fires which start in rubbish. So concentrate on cleaning out storage areas — attic, basement and closets — where one in five dwelling fires gets its start.

Does Russia Want Peace Or Is It U.S. Pipe Dream?

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

United Nations, N.Y. (NEA)

By the time President Nixon warned Moscow not to employ armed force against the Czechoslovakians the Kremlin's agents and secret police were already in full control in Prague.

Without firing a shot the Russians reversed the liberal trend in Czechoslovakia and upset the balance of power in East and Central Europe.

They also reaffirmed the "validity" of the "Brezhnev doctrine" which, they claim, gives them the right to invade Communist countries where the Marxist-Leninist regimes are ostensibly imperiled, including Red China, Yugoslavia and Romania.

More significant is the fact that the Kremlin leaders pursued their policy of naked aggression even as they were discussing with the Nixon administration control of the arms race, peace in the Middle East and Vietnam and the prospect of a summit meeting.

Ever since the upsurge of dissidence in the Communist countries of East Europe and the outbreak of armed clashes on the Soviet-Chinese border, Moscow has been behaving like a bear with a sore head, striking out angrily in new directions but retaining a certain degree of animal cunning.

The result has been shifts and zigzags in Soviet policy which warrant careful scrutiny by Nixon.

A "detente" with Russia is the target of the President's foreign policy. He has staked much of the success of his "peace offensive" upon his relations and negotiations with Soviet leaders.

What Nixon and his advisers must therefore decide is whether the Russians are actually interested in peace. Or are they merely exploiting the prospect of detente to convince President Tito of Yugoslavia, Ceausescu of Romania and, above all, the West Germans that the United States is likely to make a deal with Russia at their expense?

The question, though not easily answered, is crucial. Is Nixon prepared to pay Russia's price for detente by reacting cautiously to such acts of aggression as North Korea's destruction of the U.S. Navy plane and the Red army's rape of Czechoslovakia?

Admittedly, military retaliation for these acts of aggression is inconceivable. But surely this is not the time to create the impression that Soviet-American co-operation is fast becoming a reality.

This is precisely the impression the Russians are trying to create. They are in trouble in and out of Russia. They have alienated many of their supporters even in the Communist world.

A summit meeting with the United States, or even sufficiently high-level negotiations on bilateral problems such as arms control, would go far to distract the world's attention from the Czechoslovakian tragedy and to improve the prospects of the oft-postponed international Communist conference which Moscow is hoping to stage in June.

Another basic motive of the Kremlin is what Red China may be up to. Canada is already negotiating the establishment of diplomatic relations with Peking. Italy, West Germany and Belgium are likely to follow Canada's lead.

Understandably, the prospect of any such development has caused anxiety in the Kremlin which is trying to keep China isolated.

By holding out the olive branch to the Nixon administration the Russians obviously hope to discourage the United States from recognizing Peking.

As usual the Kremlin's Marxist-Leninists want capitalist America to pull their diplomatic chestnuts out of the fire. But is this in the interest of the United States?

The Communists have always regarded any type of appeasement as a sign of weakness. Surely Nixon understands that appeasement is no substitute for sound diplomacy.

"Talk about WEIRD—my old man told me if he had done any of the things we do—they'd have kicked him out of school!"

Holding 30, GOP Worries Over 1970 Governorships

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

LEXINGTON, KY. (NEA)

The Republican party has reason to worry over holding at least four of its seven biggest governorships in 1970. Yet the ripped-up Democrats may turn out to be the GOP's great ally in this effort.

Presently occupying 30 of the 50 governors' chairs, the Republicans have not enjoyed this much statewide prosperity since the early 1950s. Twenty-six of the 30 met here in their semiannual ceremony of mutual congratulations.

Keeping governorship control may not be easy in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan. New York also could be shaky. Only California, with Gov. Ronald Reagan, and Florida, with the unpredictable Gov. Claude Kirk, today seem on the safe side.

Altogether, 24 of the 30 GOP governorships are on the block in 1970. About 16 of these may be fairly secure, the rest not.

Involved, of course, is much more than simply maintaining the present preponderance of numbers for the sake of show. Whoever controls most governorships and state legislatures in 1971 will have the largest voice in the major congressional reapportionment which will follow the 1970 census.

The Democrats have learned to live with factions like some families do with an embarrassing uncle. But their divisions have a deeper quality today, with their doctrinaire liberal reformers shouting for some kind of public catharsis over the 1968 Chicago convention. The party's wings are polarized as never before.

On top of that, Democrats are suffering the perennial problem of the "outs." On the short end in so many states, they simply cannot find good candidates to field.

Nevertheless, the Republicans have need to fret.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Francis Sargent, who succeeded John Volpe when he went to the President's cabinet, may be a bit too patrician for today's population mix in the state.

Moreover, a strong-running Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (up in 1970) could pull in any halfway suitable governor nominee with him. Sargent's hope has to be that the Democrats do not find one.

The one-term limit in Pennsylvania bars Gov. Raymond Shafer from another try. Lt. Gov. Broderick may emerge as his successor nominee, but his edge does not seem as clear as was Shafer's when he served with William Scranton. A swing state, Pennsylvania ought to be due for a shift. But, again, the Democrats' dearth of candidates could be the Republicans' most hopeful prospect.

HUD Secretary George Romney's Michigan successor, Gov. William Milliken, is a warmly appealing figure. But some GOP strategists fear he is not achieving Romney's high visibility and needs to move around much more. A good Democratic choice teamed with the popular Sen. Philip Hart next year could be trouble.

With Gov. James Rhodes bowing out (he may go for the Senate), Ohio's GOP governorship slot is wide open. There is some fear of a chaotic primary, though this may simmer down later. Here, too, the Democrats have some name types, like John Gilligan, who could increase GOP difficulties.

Some Republican strategists believe New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's assertion of interest in a fourth term and some do not. If he is in, his edge over a fuzzy Democratic field is sharp. If out, New York could tighten up, though a GOP advantage would remain.

In the lesser states, Republicans presently in command are concerned chiefly over Oklahoma, New Mexico, Minnesota and Colorado. But the Democrats' Kansas, Tennessee and Virginia (1969) might be seized.

Contraceptive Pills Not For Nursing Mothers

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Since writing, in answer to a nursing mother, that contraceptive pills would not be harmful to her or her baby I have received a communication from La Leche League International which states that these pills should not be taken by nursing mothers. The chief reason is that they dry up the mother's milk supply. The drug may also appear in the milk and cause enlargements of the infant's breasts. For these reasons other means of contraception should be used as long as the mother is nursing her baby.

Q — A neighbor boy, 8, is always hitting his 7-year-old sister very hard in the kidney region with his fists. The father says this is doing no harm. What do you think?

A — Heavy blows to the kidney region may cause blood to appear in the urine — not necessarily gross blood but blood that can be detected by a chemical test. Regardless of whether or not this boy is causing physical injury to his sister, he is developing an abnormal behavior pattern that will be hard to overcome unless it is checked promptly and completely. This type of behavior can hurt him psychologically and socially.

Q — My aunt says you don't think it proper for girls in high school to take showers together. What are your reasons?

A — I don't recall making such a statement and would be interested to know what reasons prompted someone else to make it. Boys take showers together without suffering any evil consequences, and in some highly civilized countries entire families bathe together without benefit of swim suits. It all depends on what you are used to.

Q — Our son was born with hypospadias. He has had several operations to correct it. What effect does this condition have on a child?

A — In this congenital defect in boys there is a failure of the urethral groove of the embryo to close. As a result the urethral opening may lie anywhere in the penis short of the normal location. The condition should be corrected in early childhood to prevent your son from developing a feeling of inferiority. This usually requires a plastic operation in two or more stages. If the operation is successful, the victim can lead a normal life in every way.

The maidenhair tree also known as the ginkgo, is neither a fern, a pine tree nor a hardwood, but a combination of all three. This is one of two trees that have survived to our day from the Coal Age. The other is the cycad, which is halfway between a fern and a palm.

Blood Cells

Almost one-half the blood in the human body is made up of cells. Blood cells are so small that 60,000 of them could be put on the head of a pin.

West opened the three of diamonds against South's three no-trump contract. It was the same lead any normal bridge player would have made and West was mildly happy when South overtook dummy's 10 of diamonds with his jack. If South had only two diamonds one more lead would clear up the suit for West.

West became even more happy when South led the jack of hearts at trick two and East gathered in the trick with the queen after South played low from dummy. It looked as if the three no-trump contract was headed for trouble.

East led back a diamond and when South produced the six, West's feeling of well-being disappeared. That nasty South had started with three diamonds to the king jack and the suit was still stopped.

Then West began to do a little serious thinking. He was sure that East would get in with the king of hearts. If West could persuade his partner to lead a spade, they might beat the contract. With a third diamond lead South would surely romp home.

Finally West figured out a way of asking for a spade lead. He played his queen of diamonds! South took dummy's ace of diamonds; returned to his hand with a club; led a heart and played dummy's eight spot. East was on lead with the king.

Now it was his turn to think. He did so and decided that the queen of diamonds play was intended to tell him that declarer held the king. Then East led a spade and three quick spade tricks saved the game and rubber.

A—Washington declined a salary and asked only for his expenses, a complete record of which he kept.

Q—Which is the one popular sport played in this country which is truly American in its origins?

A—Basketball, invented in 1891 by James Naismith.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Entanglement in Helicopter Contract

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — On top of the disclosure that the Air Force falsified reports about the C-5A transport plane, this column has learned of another Lockheed contract scandal that the Army has tried to suppress.

Lockheed Aircraft is developing a combat helicopter, called the Cheyenne, whose costs have soared far more spectacularly than have the experimental models. Indeed, Lockheed encountered so much difficulty with rotor instability that a blue-ribbon Army advisory committee warned the company to conduct extensive wind-tunnel tests before sending up another test pilot.

Lockheed ignored this advice and scheduled a test flight over the Pacific on March 12. The pilot began putting the Cheyenne through its paces off the California coast not far from the site of Union Oil's great undersea oil leak.

Witnesses said three of the helicopter's four main rotor blades flew off, the craft exploded in the air, and the debris scattered into the Pacific. Test pilot David Beil was killed.

Now it develops that the Army document granting the Cheyenne research contract to Lockheed was signed by Willis Hawkins, then assistant secretary of the Army in charge of research, who came to the Pentagon from Lockheed and later returned to Lockheed.

During the competition for the Cheyenne contract, Hawkins also attended a meeting at which the proposals from a dozen rival companies were discussed. Yet he had signed a stipulation that he would disassociate himself from any matter involving Lockheed.

He was also required to sell his Lockheed stock, give up his stock options and sever all ties with the company. Yet when he left the Pentagon in June 1966, he returned to his former desk at Lockheed as vice president in charge of science and engineering.

—Just Happenstance—

A company spokesman assured this column that Hawkins had excused himself from the Pentagon meeting before the Cheyenne proposals were discussed and that he had not participated in the decision to award the contract to Lockheed. The reason he signed the authorizing document, the spokesman explained, was that he happened to be acting secretary of the Army at the time.

The spokesman also acknowledged that an Army advisory committee, headed by Dr. Kurt Hohenemser, had pointed out some technical problems connected with the Cheyenne. The spokesman denied, however, that Lockheed had been negligent in going ahead with the March 12 flight test. The 10 test models, he said, had made 900 previous flights.

A year ago, New York's Rep. Otis Pike asked L. Mendel Rivers, the House Armed Services Chairman, to investigate the skyrocketing Cheyenne costs. Pike also cited Hawkins' apparent conflict of interest. Whatever extent he participated in the decision, he was the Army's research chief at the time Lockheed was awarded the contract.

Yet Rivers flatly refused to investigate Lockheed, although he has sent his aides and secretaries all over the world investigating the most trivial matters. It has also been reported that Rivers pulled strings inside the Pentagon to get the C-5A contract for Lockheed's plant in Marietta, Ga.

About this time, Lockheed offered to help pay for the erection of a bronze bust of L. Mendel Rivers on a seven-foot granite shaft, overlooking Rivers Avenue in North Charleston.

A subscription to build the monument was raised by North Charleston businessmen who wanted to show their gratitude to Rivers for bringing so many defense contracts into their area. Lockheed offered to make up whatever amount the Lockheed businessmen failed to raise. As it happened, they were short a little over $200, which Lockheed immediately coughed up.

Among the guests who flew down to South Carolina for the dedication, recall Pentagon insiders, was Hawkins. He stood in a drizzling rain with a glittering array of soaked Pentagon celebrities, witnesses remembered, while Mrs. Rivers snipped the ribbon unveiling the L. Mendel Rivers monument.

Hawkins couldn't be reached for comment. This illustrates, however, how the military-industrial-congressional complex works.

—Merry-Go-Round—

Nixon is getting as smart politically as LBJ. The sudden trip to pay tribute to South Carolina's Jimmy Byrnes on his 90th birthday was planned just after the White House learned that Sen. Strom Thurmond, also of South Carolina, was going to blast over Nixon's reneging on his Miami Beach promise to go slow on school desegregation. The President also took Ev Dirksen to South Carolina. Dirksen has just held up confirmation of William H. Brown III, Philadelphia Negro, to be head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, is also blocking Dr. John Knowles, the critic of the AMA, to be assistant secretary of HEW.

Guest Editorial

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: The Small City's Day. — The growing disinclination of many executives to take posts in the big cities — preferring the saner pace and style of smaller city living — can be read two ways.

Seen negatively, the trend reflects an understandable aversion to the discord, blight, and general sense of crisis that prevails in most large American cities. It also is a sign that executives have caught on to the fact that a promotion to the home office in the big city, despite a pay boost and all the trappings of prestige, is not always a bargain. As the recent Bureau of Labor Statistics study showed, the cost of living varies so greatly in different parts of the country, and from city to city, that a transferring executive often needs a hefty raise just to break even.

Seen positively, it's gratifying that the big-city mecca concept may be losing its hold. America is a vast land. There is no need for its people to crowd into a few urban centers. With modern communications and computer hookups, there should be even less reason for decisionmaking executives to congregate in such centers.

This isn't to say that the New York or Chicago or San Francisco business styles won't be dominant for quite a while. But there's also something to be said for their being leavened by the thinking of men from such worthwhile though more remote places like Grand Rapids, Mich., or Pendleton, Oregon.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — The exemption I claimed for my uncle is being disallowed. Can I talk to anyone else about this besides the agent who examined my return?

A — Notify the examining agent that you do not agree with his disallowance of the exemption you claimed and request that a district conference be arranged. At this conference, your side of the story as well as the agent's will be reviewed on the basis of the facts and law involved.

If the tax in question in any one year is $2,500 or less, no formal or written protest is needed to obtain such a conference. The people who handle these conferences are specially trained and are not attached to the units responsible for examining returns. This helps assure an impartial review.

Looking Backward

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

When a man is totally brainless and sinks so low in the scale of humanity as to be compelled to attract attention by his cheek and oddity of clothing, he should leave his country for his country's good. Get an ounce of poison, for instance, and wink out.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The City Manager plan of government, voted on at a special election, was defeated by a majority of 649 votes, after a vigorous campaign of several weeks duration. The total, 2,935 against; 2,286 for. Total vote, 5,221. The political pot was stirred to the point of boiling. There is but one thing to look forward to, and that is another attempt to put Sedalia in the ranks of progressive and ambitious cities.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. A. W. Kokendoff, who retired a year ago as pastor of the First Christian church after serving 35 consecutive years as pastor, was made pastor-emeritus for life by the unanimous vote of the congregation on recommendation of the church board submitted by the new pastor, the Rev. Clyde S. Sherman.

No One Presidential Aide Appears in Lead Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's seeming reversal on a hunger program dramatizes the pitfalls of a favorite Washington guessing game over who is the President's top lieutenant.

The answer after 3½ months appears to be no one—yet—and that President Nixon has made good so far on a post-election pledge there would be no empire building among his advisors.

"Their problem is that there's no Joe Califano, there's nobody you can go to and get a yes or no," said one federal official.

"It's a little fuzzy," said another.

Joseph Califano was an aide to former President Lyndon B. Johnson. He wielded almost absolute power on domestic issues during the waning months of the Johnson administration.

Although no such strongman has become visible in the Nixon administration, there is no lack of candidates.

Among those mentioned most frequently at the moment: economic counselor Arthur F. Burns, legal counsel John D. Ehrlichmann, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

Cabinet and agency officials who must deal daily with the White House, often on an urgent basis, appear divided over whether there is a need for a "Califano." Some say there is a lack of coordination in the executive mansion that wouldn't exist with one man totally in charge below the President.

Others say the current situation allows freer discussions of all issues on one subject.

"It gets everything on the table," said one official.

Perhaps mentioned most frequently as the leading candidate for the White House power is economist Burns. He came to Washington only after winning guarantees he would not be closed out as some say he was while a member of the Eisenhower Council of Economic Advisors.

Recent reports have credited Burns with watering down an ambitious welfare program being pushed by Finch and with killing proposals for an all-out war on hunger also favored by Finch and by Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin.

Into the midst of the continuing guessing game this week dropped a new report that it wasn't Burns at all, but Daniel P. Moynihan who killed the hunger program by telling the President there was no evidence malnutrition in the United States is severe enough to affect learning powers of children. Moynihan is special White House assistant on urban affairs.

Such reports don't suggest that Moynihan, the only liberal Democrat among presidential advisors, is becoming the strongman. But they do tend to tarnish Burns' blossoming image as the man with the President's ear on all subjects.

The guessers were jolted Tuesday night when the administration suddenly announced that instead of wanting $15 million to expand hunger programs in fiscal 1970, it wanted $270 million. If the earlier reports were accepted, the new turn of events suggested still a third candidate for emerging strongman.

The likeliest person would be Finch, a long and trusted friend of Nixon who pushed hard for an expanded food program and who has a reputation for not giving up.

There has been a temptation in some quarters to picture Finch as Nixon's right arm. But Finch has appeared to go out of his way on several occasions to make it plain he has enough to do running the vast welfare establishment without being a clearinghouse for unrelated issues.

Some published reports and the comments of sources in Cabinet departments and agencies suggest Ehrlichmann may be the one to emerge as the most influential, but he appears in this role in "inside" reports only sporadically.

Obscene Literature Subject of Ruling

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A three-judge federal court, upholding the 1968 obscenity law, says anyone can stop obscene matter from being mailed to them.

"To require a commercial enterprise to strike a name from a mailing list seems little burden to impose," declared U.S. Dist. Court Judge Manuel Real and Martin H. Carr. A separate, concurring opinion was written by U.S. Circuit Court Judge Shirley M. Husstedler.

The special court ruled Wednesday on a suit brought by Daniel Rowen of the American Book Service and 14 others claiming the law violated rights of free speech and press.

The law states the recipient of obscene mail may notify the post office which, under threat of a court order, will instruct the sender to strike the party's name from the mailing list.

Colorado Flooding Reported

JAMESTOWN, Colo. (AP) — Churning flood waters five feet deep rolled through parts of this isolated mountain town today after four days of snow and rain sent rivers and streams out of their banks.

The Boulder County sheriff's office said a new access road was being constructed to the town of 300 and an emergency party had reached the community despite washed-out roads and bridges. Among those stranded were two pregnant women, due to give birth shortly, the sheriff's office said.

Flood waters rolled down the main street Wednesday, carrying away eight houses and the town cafe. There were no major injuries reported. Crews late Wednesday night dynamited debris-clogged spillways in an attempt to relieve pressure on dams which were holding swollen reservoirs above the village. Officials feared the flooding would be worse if the debris broke loose under water pressure.

To the southwest, authorities searched for a youth feared drowned in Boulder Creek. A sheriff's deputy said witnesses spotted a youth on a rubber inner tube riding the swirling waters but failed to see him emerge on the other side of a bridge.

The snow and rain sent a crest near flood stage roaring down the South Platte River toward Denver, 55 miles southeast of Jamestown. In 1965, flooding along the Platte caused $300 million damage at Denver.

Felix L. Sparks, director of the Colorado Water Conservation Board, said there is potential for even worse flooding this time. "All these streams are at flood stage now, and anything more dumped on them would bring on a disaster," he said.

High water problems—knocking out roads and bridges, electric and telephone lines, closing schools, flooding hundreds of basements, isolating rural families—were reported along an area several miles wide and extending 50 miles north and south of Denver.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said there would be diminishing showers today, following a steady downpour since Sunday. Some areas have received seven inches of rain during the period.

State Money Goes to Eldon For Park Land

ELDON — With a check for $4,500, Eldon is one of five Missouri cities to receive cash payments for the purchase of park land, according to the State Outdoor Recreation Council.

Robert Dunkeson, executive secretary, said Eldon would purchase a three-acre tract with the money, which is matched by local funds.

The state receives money for the fund from the sale of federal lands, federal taxes on motor boat fuel and from the sale of Golden Eagle passports and other entrance fees to federal areas, Dunkeson said.

The other four cities are Olivette, Winchester, Monett and Raymore.

North Ireland Government Regime is Given Time By Paisley

BELFAST (AP) — The Rev. Ian Paisley, Northern Ireland's leading Protestant extremist, emerged from jail Tuesday night with a conciliatory promise to "give the new government a chance to get the country back to normal."

Paisley was among the first to be freed under an amnesty declared for all political prisoners arrested during the past eight months of clashes between Roman Catholic civil rights demonstrators and militant Protestants.

The amnesty was the first major step taken by Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark in a "bid to wipe the slate clean" and pacify Northern Ireland's warring factions.

Nevada Prisoner Faces Charges In Slayings

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Elmer Richard Hayes, 25, of Las Vegas, Nev., will be released from the Nevada State Prison to face murder charges in Missouri in connection with the fatal shooting of Thomas and Dorothy Hayes in Washington County Feb. 12, 1967.

Hayes is serving a 15-year robbery sentence.

The prosecuting attorney for Washington County, Robert L. Carr, wrote the Nevada parole board that he had visited Hayes in January and that Hayes admitted the shooting at that time. The parole board ruled Wednesday that Hayes would be made available to Missouri. The state parole chief, Phillip Hannifin said Hayes would be returned to Nevada if he is acquitted on the Missouri charges under terms of an "executive agreement" between the states.

No K. C. Miracle When Tigers Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Royals could not manufacture a miracle for the second night in a row.

Kansas City's loss—only the Royals' second in their last eight games—dropped the Royals 3½ games behind the Minnesota Twins in the American League's Western Division.

The Royals are 4-2 on their current road trip, which takes them next to Baltimore, where they open a three-game series against the Orioles Friday night.

The Royals went down swinging against the Tigers, knocking 1968 World Series hero Mickey Vernon out of the box in the eighth inning.

Lolich, who beat the Cardinals three times in last October's classic, had yielded only three hits through seven innings when the Royals chased him. Lolich hit Ed Kirkpatrick with a pitch, then Jackie Hernandez doubled for his third hit of the game and Jerry Adair singled two runs home. That finished Lolich, now 3-1.

Chuck Dowson came on to protect Lolich's victory.

Detroit tagged Royer for six hits and all six of its runs. Among the blows off the former Tiger farmhand were a two-run home run by Jim Price in the fourth inning and a solo homer by Mickey Stanley in the fifth.

Another rookie, Dick Drago, will pitch for the Royals against the Orioles Friday night.

Illinois Star Signs Letter To CMSC

WARRENSBURG — Robert Gusewelle, 6'5", 205-pound forward from Edwardsville, Ill., has accepted an athletic scholarship to attend Central Missouri State College, next year, according to Norm Short, head basketball coach of the Mules.

Gusewelle comes to the Mules, 1968-69 MIAA co-champions, with a string of high school basketball laurels to his credit.

Last season as a senior at Edwardsville High School the hardwood ace averaged 16.4 points per contest while pulling down an average of 10 rebounds per game.

He was named to the Illinois All-State Honorable Mention Team as well as earning first team honors on the Edwardsville Holiday Classic Tournament Team, All-Metro and All-Conference squads.

Short expressed pleasure in the highly sought after Gusewelle and noted that earning all-state honorable mention status in a basketball state like Illinois is a great accomplishment.

The mentor added, "Gusewelle is not only an outstanding athlete, but a fine student, the type of athlete we want to attend CMSC."

Short summed it up by saying, "the Edwardsville star has the potential to make a valuable contribution to our basketball program."

Cardinals Have Help

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Julian Javier's five finger exercise was a study in futility, the kind of futility the St. Louis Cardinals are getting all too used to.

Javier was just disgusted, but Vada Pinson was so enraged he got ejected from a game he wasn't even playing in all because of a play at home plate in the San Francisco Giants' 5-3 victory over the Cardinals Wednesday night. Manager Red Schoendienst also was booted out.

The Giants were ahead 3-1 in the sixth when Lou Brock singled off winner Gaylord Perry, 5-3. Brock stole second and scored on Javier's double. Javier went and was thrown out at the plate by Perry on a tap to the left of the mound.

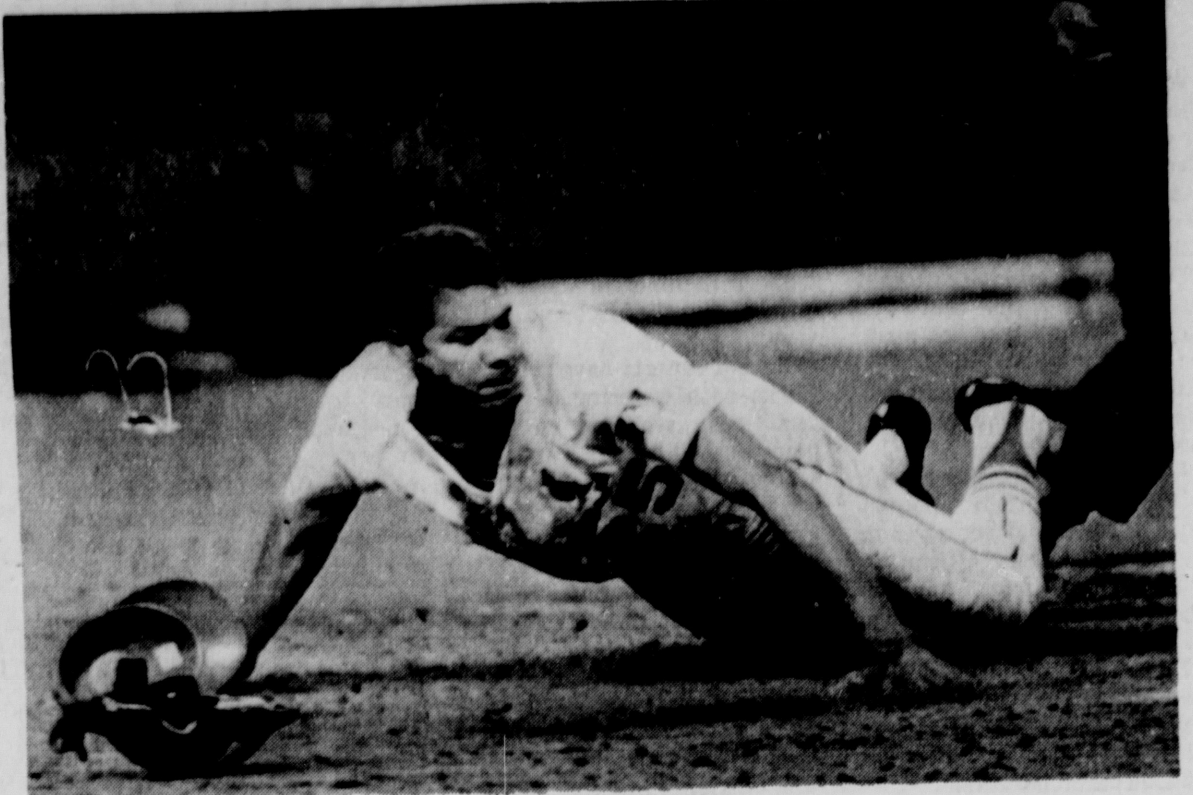

Javier and the rest of the Cardinals figure Javier wasn't out no matter what Umpire Augie Donatelli said.

"The first thing he said was that I didn't touch the plate," Javier said in a subdued tone. "Then he saw the marks my five fingers made on the plate and said Hiatt (Giants catcher Jack Hiatt) tagged me. He told Red Hiatt tagged me. He couldn't even decide.

"That was the whole ball game right there," Javier added, warming to the subject. "Tim (McCarver) gets the hit and then (Mike) Shannon is up with the pitcher in trouble. I don't know; it looked like Donatelli wasn't ready to call the play. I don't think he saw me touch the plate."

Donatelli wasn't available for comment, but Hiatt was.

"I'll tell you the way I saw it," Hiatt offered. "When the ball was hit I tried to put my leg in the middle of the plate and get ready for Head first's throw. Javier slid head first

Disputed Play

With his glasses suspended in mid-air and the rains coming down, St. Louis Cardinals' Julian Javier slides across the plate, but he was ruled out on the tag by the catcher. The play was hotly contested by the Red Birds, but the decision stood and they lost again in front of the home crowd. (UPI) and I thought he was way to the left of the bag. I thought I touched his arm and not hearing any call, I went after him again. Then I heard Mr. Donatelli make the call and I was already sort of lunging at Javier. That's what made the play look so bad. But I thought he was right."

Pinson was sure enough Donatelli was wrong to get thrown out of the game.

"I told him he blew the play," Pinson hissed. "I don't care how much experience he has, he blew it. If he'd been in position, he would have seen it. Everybody in the stands saw it. They could see it in Europe.

"All the guys are busting a gut to win and then we lose because of a call like that," Pinson muttered. "He threw me out because the truth hurts and he can't stand the truth."

Giants Manager Clyde King wanted the play put in its proper perspective.

"We came back to score two more runs after that," King pointed out, "so you can't say that was the whole game."

Schoendienst said "I went out to find out why he (Donatelli) threw Pinson out." Red explained. "After he told me, he said 'I should have thrown you out a long time ago. So he threw me out.'"

King had a lot more worries on his mind than one play. He's slowly, but surely, losing his team to injuries.

"Bobby Bonds and Willie Mays are both unable to swing a bat," King wailed, "and Willie McCovey's out and now Jim Hart."

Any toe-stubbing by either Oklahoma or Oklahoma could prove fatal to those two teams' Big Eight Conference baseball championship aspirations this weekend.

The Cowboys, aiming for their fourth straight league title under Coach Chet Bryan, lead with a 12-3 conference record, while the Sooners are a step behind at 11-4.

OSU goes to fifth-place Kansas (5-8) for a doubleheader Friday afternoon and a single game Saturday afternoon, while the Sooners are home against seventh-place Colorado (4-10) for a similar three-game series.

If either stumbles, Missouri (9-6) or Kansas State (6-5) could move up. The Tigers and Wildcats play each other at Manhattan, Kan., and one or the other needs a sweep to remain in contention.

Iowa State (5-9) goes to Nebraska (2-9) in the other series this weekend.

Although Oklahoma stumbled at Iowa State last weekend—losing the final game of a three-game set to fall out of a tie for the lead with Oklahoma State—Coach Enos Smoot says the Sooners aren't out of the race by any means.

"If we can win the rest of our games," he said, "we'll be in good shape. Oklahoma State plays two good ballclubs (Kansas and Kansas State), both capable of beating anybody."

Smoot's Sooners also face a tough windup, playing at Missouri in their final series next weekend.

Besides the third team race to the wire, the Big Eight has a red-hot battle for the individual batting championship, with OSU's Steve Houck again making a late rush toward the top.

Last year, the junior outfielder collected 10 hits in 12 times at bat against Missouri pitching in the last series of the season to capture the league bat title at .424.

Now, he's started another late-season push which has boosted his average to .333, ranking him 10th in the conference this week.

Grabbing the batting lead with six games to play was Colorado catcher John Billington, now hitting .424. Kansas State second baseman Bill Huisman is second at .415 and Missouri's freshman catcher, Steve Patchin, is third at .392.

Last week's leader, Larry Corrigan of Iowa State dropped to sixth place at .367.

Mike Tate of Oklahoma State leads in hits with 22, doubles with 6 and runs batted in with 21. He is hitting .323. K-State's Bob Gartner and Oklahoma's Chris Rickey share the homer lead with 4 each.

Kansas State has taken the batting lead with a .287 team mark while Oklahoma State is second at .271.

Ron Hall of Oklahoma has the top earned run average among pitchers, 1.17, but OSU's Bill Dobbs leads with his 5-0 record and has a 1.46 ERA. Bill Maxwell of the Cowboys also has a 1.46 ERA with a 3-0 record.

Oklahoma State has a 2.23 2.23 team ERA and Oklahoma 2.27.

Meetings

Open Again On Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football club owners were to resume merger meetings today with discussion expected to focus on the shift of three teams from the 16-team National League to the 10-team American League.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle reportedly was ready to name the three teams. If both leagues agree, the pattern of realignment in the AFL would include three divisions, two of four teams each, and one of five. One of the NFL transfers would be in each group.

The teams most prominently mentioned as possible contenders for moving include New Orleans and Atlanta, the two most recent NFL franchises; Philadelphia, now under new ownership, and Minnesota and Baltimore.

The meetings began at Palm Springs, Calif., in mid-March, continued last week, and recessed again without any firm plan emerging over realignment. Rozelle caucused with the NFL owners Wednesday to prepare a proposal to submit at today's joint meeting.

Grabbing the batting lead with six games to play was Colorado catcher John Billington, now hitting .424. Kansas State second baseman Bill Huisman

Smooth, Creamy Butter Made in Food Blender

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Do tell Harry that blenders are the greatest invention since cream for making smooth, creamy butter. Fill only about three-fourths full of cream, put the lid on, switch to low speed and let it churn. The motor changes its tone when the butter begins to gather. Then I know it is time to take a rubber scraper and carefully push the thick cream down and away from the sides. I pour the butter into a large strainer. With the spray on my kitchen tap, I spray it thoroughly but gently to rinse away the remaining milk. Wash and wash and wash until every drop of moisture is out of the butter. Salt sparingly but according to taste, mold it and serve with pride.—CAROLANN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My dishwasher has a strange mildew smell and I wonder if there is any way to get rid of it. I have left it standing open to air out. It is used every day but nothing helps.—MRS. J. L.

DEAR POLLY—My kitchen sink was clogged and I did not have a plunger. I took a plastic lid from a three-pound coffee can, laid it flat over the opening. By pushing up and down real fast with the palm of my hand it did the work of a plunger. If I get a Polly Dollar I will buy a plunger with a handle.—MRS. G. R.

DEAR POLLY—I do a lot of sewing and was always mislaying parts of patterns until I started using a clip board. Now I clip the pattern envelope and instruction sheet to the board. As each individual section is removed from the material it also goes under the clip. Each piece is handy if needed for reference. When the garment is finished, all are ready to go back into the envelope for use another time. This is a great timesaver and organizer.—GRANDMA
